Retrieving lost history

Antioch turns 106 as Lakes Region Historical Society continues efforts to create trail to the past

By KEN PATCHEN

Antioch was incorporated as a village on Feb. 29, 1892 but the history of the village extends further back. The Village also was incorporated in 1857, but that was repealed in 1865.

Efforts to collect and present Antioch history are very much the concern of the Lakes Region Historical Society.

There is much lost history, but there are specific projects to collect, preserve, and understand what remains. One example of this ongoing effort is the research underway about the downtown Main and Lake Streets business district.

Final results are months away, but presentations at recent public meetings have begun to suggest the dynamic nature of downtown business history. It's a complicated story.

"I've been in Antioch 51 years, and I feel like a new comer," Lakes Region Historical Society President Robert Lindblad told Antioch Rotary members Feb. 19. He said that he was learning much about the town from these projects.

"About a year ago, the Village of Antioch asked me if the society would be interested in researching the history of downtown buildings on Main Street," Lindblad said. "It's turned into quite a big job."

The current anticipated completion date for the downtown history project is late spring. Three society members are spending time on research to supplement taped recollections about the downtown area. Ains-

ACHS' Ultes second in state wrestling tourney

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

The experience of walking into a darkened 17,000-seat University of Illinois Assembly Hall with flashbulbs going off in every direction lets a wrestler know he is among the best.

The event is known as the grand march and takes place before the finals of the Class A and AA state meet. Jeff Ultes of Antioch capped off his high school career with just that experience Saturday.

Ultes brought home a second-place showing at 171 pounds.

"That is fabulous. You just get choked up in the grand march. There are 10,000 people cheering. It is the pinnacle of achievement," said ACHS coach Ted Sieckowski.

Ultes would lose in the finale 5-3 to Jason Potter of St. Charles but became the first Sequoit grappler to reach the state finals in eight years.

"We actually had some quiet time before the finals. We worked over our game plan. There is a point where you can get too nervous," said Sieckowski.

"He knew I could do it. He helped me the whole time with my confidence," said Ultes.

"Potter stopped Jeff's leg attack and that is what he does," said Sieckowski.

Sieckowski described his prize pupil as a quick and agile wrestler. He is outspoken in the wrestling room and works Ultes had a win by injury default in the first round. He then came back and beat a Marist wrestler 9-7.

Next up was Tremaine Dade of Quincy. Ultes came through with a 6-4 win in an "extremely tough match. He was ley Wonderling, Robin Kessell, and Ruth Bemis have taken the lead on research by the society. Their work supplements videotaped and tape recorded recollections by village elders such as Mildred LaPlant, Ida Kufalk, Clare Horton, and Charles Wertz.

HISTORY: Downtown, village grow old

"We just asked them questions," said Lindblad. From the recollections came the initial data base with which to start work.

The historical society seeks to learn when buildings were built, who built them, and who occupied them. "Then we're going to make plaques with all this information on it with the help of the village," Lindblad said. The plaques will be placed on each building.

"The amazing part that we're finding out is how many times the businesses moved," he said.

Society member Wonderling also spoke at length at a recent meeting with Lindblad at the Antioch Library about the project and the society's findings. "There were not a lot of long term businesses," she said.

"Our only means of finding these was the Antioch News," she said. Many stores advertised in its pages, but many did not place their address in the advertisement. The society does not have old telephone books with which to check locations.

In some cases, society members have been able to look at old photographs under magnification to determine names and store locations. Obituaries also contain a great deal of business-related information.

Given the absence of computers for the historical society, data for the project is collated on long scrolls of paper.

"It just goes on and on and on," Wonderling said of the list of businesses at any one location on Main Street.

She told one story about a butcher shop that was in business at the location now occupied by the Canton Tea Garden restaurant, 900 Main Street. The two owners of the butcher shop sold the business back and forth between themselves whenever they had to leave Antioch for an extended reason. Records suggest that they each owned the butcher shop three times apiece.

"It's mind boggling when you get down to some of these things," Wonderling said. "Putting them in time sequence is going to be tough to do."

The actual appearance of the earliest buildings in the village can only be implied, according to Wonderling. For example, a fire in 1891 destroyed the opera house. The only picture of the opera house today is a drawing that was created from verbal descriptions drawn from memory.

"We were notorious for our bootlegging around here," said Wonderling. She said that the 1930s were an exciting time to be in the Antioch area. During prohibition, the village pub kept serving "beer beer, not root beer."

She said that gangsters left no marks in Antioch although they were in the area. There was even a bookie joint in town. One fraternal organization had pinball machines and a very elaborate system to immediately hide them.

"They had two pinballs that took care of their rent and all their utilities," Lindblad told the library gathering. One day, the State of Illinois was coming through town to confis-cate machines wherever they were. A woman at the fraternal society won on a pinball machine just as the state arrived to grab it. She grabbed her money and left through the back door.

Morley's Saloon was between the Canton Tea Garden and J.J. Blinkers, 896 Main Street. There were fighting cocks in that saloon.

The historical society has learned Civil War veterans would play cards in a little building on a wooded lot on the corner where the State Bank of the Lakes is now located. A picture of the building could never be found. One day recently, a photograph of it arrived in the mail.

The main street in town, Route 83, was originally a trail created by Native Americans of the Mukwonago Nation. There are no known tree trail-markers in the area.

"The streets were mud," Wonderling said. At street corners there were planks across which pedestrians could walk.

"Everyday we get a little more history. Everyday we lose a little more history," Wonderling said.

When Lindblad described the historical society to Rotarians, he said it was a group of very dedicated volunteers trying to save and learn about the past of Antioch. "The society was founded by a group of people who saw the history of the area slipping away in garage sales and bonfires," he said.

Fires burned much of the early downtown area of Antioch. The society's downtown history project instigated by the Village of Antioch seeks to save as much of that history as is possible before it is irretrievably lost.

Village trustees voted to continue their Feb. 16 public hearing to annex seven parcels on Route 83. The annexation petition is part of village efforts to broaden the tax base and encourage economic development.

The annexation hearing will reconvene April 20 at 7 p.m.

At the regular village board meeting following the hearing, Village Attorney Kenneth Clark was authorized by the village board to prepare preliminary drafts of three documents. He is to prepare a resolution to authorize rezoning of the seven parcels to B-3 zoning classifications, to prepare six pre-annexation agreements for each land owner, and to prepare an annexation ordinance.

Prior to these actions, members of the combined planning commission and zoning board of appeals had voted at Feb. 12 hearing to recommend that the village grant a request for B-3 zoning for the seven parcels of land. Service and wholesale business districts are zoned B-3.

About 18 county residents presented petitions and spoke in opposition to the zoning request at the Feb. 12 hearing. Only a few county citizens appeared before the Village Board hearing to speak in opposition of the proposed annexation.

The zoning board considered only the request for a zoning change at their Feb. 12 hearing. Village trustees considered the annexation request at a public hearing scheduled for 7 p.m. on Feb. 16 prior to the regularly scheduled village board meeting.

Owners or trust beneficiaries of property that is proposed for rezoning and annexation to the village are: James C. Hamlin, Richard F. and Irene R. Curtis, Dimitrios Katsenos, Bruce J. and Russel H. Gebert, George and Evelyn Perivolidis, and David L. Fales. Existing businesses on some of the property proposed for annexation include Hamlin Accounting Office, AZ Rental, and JT's Roadhouse. Some annexed parcels are vacant at this time.

Route 83 properties annexed to the village will receive sewer and water service.

CHOOSEY CHILD: Owner enjoys vivid history gifts, apparel, and pre-teen clothes. They have boys outdoor and young girl's pageant wear. "I don't know who likes these (clothes) more, the kids or the moms," she said.

Old photographs of the village show their building holding its own as a barber shop at a time when village streets were dirt.

That is only one of many types of business services that were offered at the Choosey Child store location.

Preliminary information, that may or may not be accurate, shows the rich variety of business services offered from the Choosey Child building.

Chicago Footware Co. sold shoes at that location in 1901, 1924, 1926, and 1933. Darnaby's Shoes were sold from the store in 1922, the 1930s, and 1937. In 1930, Antioch Plumbing and Heating occupied the building, having occupied only the back part of the building in 1929.

In 1949, Darnaby's Shoes was doing business there and sold a half interest in the business to Bob Taylor. Between 1954 and 1959, Taylor bought the remaining interest and was there until 1961, apparently.

Today the building is Choosey Child and it has rarely looked better. The building won an award last fall from the Chicago Paint & Coatings Association. The Association sponsored the 11th Annual Chicago's Finest Painted Ladies Contest. The Choosey Child Building placed first in its commercial category.

However, the repainted, colorful exterior is not the most recent renovation to the building.

"These floors are pretty old," said Porch. But they look new today.

"We had our existing floors done," she said. It took three men five days to complete the work while the store closed for business.

When customers come in the store now, they notice the change. "People notice there's something different about the floors," she said. They are less likely to comment on the building exterior, but Porch believes that people are aware of the efforts of all merchants to maintain the buildings of the downtown business core.

"Pretty much all the (downtown) buildings are being kept up nicely," she said. "Our merchants have a lot of pride in the downtown area."

Porch attaches importance to these efforts as well as their own. Her building does not have the look of a contemporary retail merchandiser. What she tries to do is invite them to another world.

Part of that charm may come from the history of the building and its many contributions to downtown retail life now reflected in the ongoing research of the historical society.

ULTES: Finishes with 100 wins lightening quick," said Sieckowski.

The early wins were important to Ultes.

"I wanted to end my high school wrestling career with 100 wins," he said. "The semifinal match was tough, too. We were tied 3-3 and I took him down and got an escape."

Ultes takes pride in having plenty of stamina in the third period. "I am a third period wrestler," he says.

Ultes' stellar career of 101 wins and 14 losses almost did not take place at all.

"My Dad was a wrestler at Lake Forest and he talked me into it eighth grade. I am glad he did," said Ultes.

He had plenty of family and friends on hand in Champaign for the title match. Afterwards, he congratulated Patton. He hopes to face his new rival in summer tournaments.

The runner-up status could bolster his chances for a college scholarship.

ACHS' other qualifiers also fared well.

Nate Carden was 2-1 at 215 pounds for a 29-9 mark and a top 20 finish.

Joe Brandimore ended 34-8 at 130 pounds as he lost a 16-0 decision to Josh Turyna of St. Charles.

Sophomore Ryan Hlinak finished a 30-4 season as he lost to a Quincy wrestler 4-0 in the preliminary round at 119 pounds.

"With the freshmen and sophomores coming back, we should have a fine nucleus," said Sieckowski.

They, too, will learn what it is like to be in the spotlight.

REVIEW

'Alice in Wonderland' absolutely Charming

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

The Antioch Community High School production of "Alice in Wonderland" is wonderful. It is a light, open, funny, creative achievement of ensemble acting, costuming, scenery, and lighting.

With a cast of 27 people, it only takes 90 minutes for several to emerge from the production with unique character.

Best of the group? Hard to tell. Lance Liebert as Mouse did a good job conveying mouse existence.

Clare Gaynor as Eaglet took a costume problem and worked with it to great comic effect. She's very calm with problems and she moved the production along as her costume's feathery crown dropped into her face.

Brigitte Heffernan was very appealing as Crab. She brings a certain charming loquaciousness to her scene with Alice.

Josh Archer, Mike Nowak, and Ted Welker get credit for the most dramatic entrance, well done, and they do a great job as the caterpillar in a unison character portrayal.

Nikki Krupa as the Cheshire cat has to be a favorite. She was born to be a cat.

Libby Moss as the March Hare creates a playful portrait and totally reinforces the absurdities of the Mad Hatter. She was wonderful.

Erin Boodey is a delightful Dormouse. She holds the physical poses of her role with care, and she makes a vivid character of her all too brief appearance.

Kyle Scott presents his Gryphon role in both physical mannerisms, facial expressions, and is a grand foil for the Mock Turtle. He was a pleasure to be with in their scene.

Amanda Gannon is excellent as Mock Turtle. She does it all. She looks mournful. She dances. But, best of all, she sings. Two songs. One is a lobster quadrille call and another is a good, good version of "Beautiful Soup."

Best of all is Nick Vandrush with his Mad Hatter role. His is the most vivid creation from the ensemble. He lets you believe that he is indeed, a hatter, and although he is mad, he speaks of it logically.

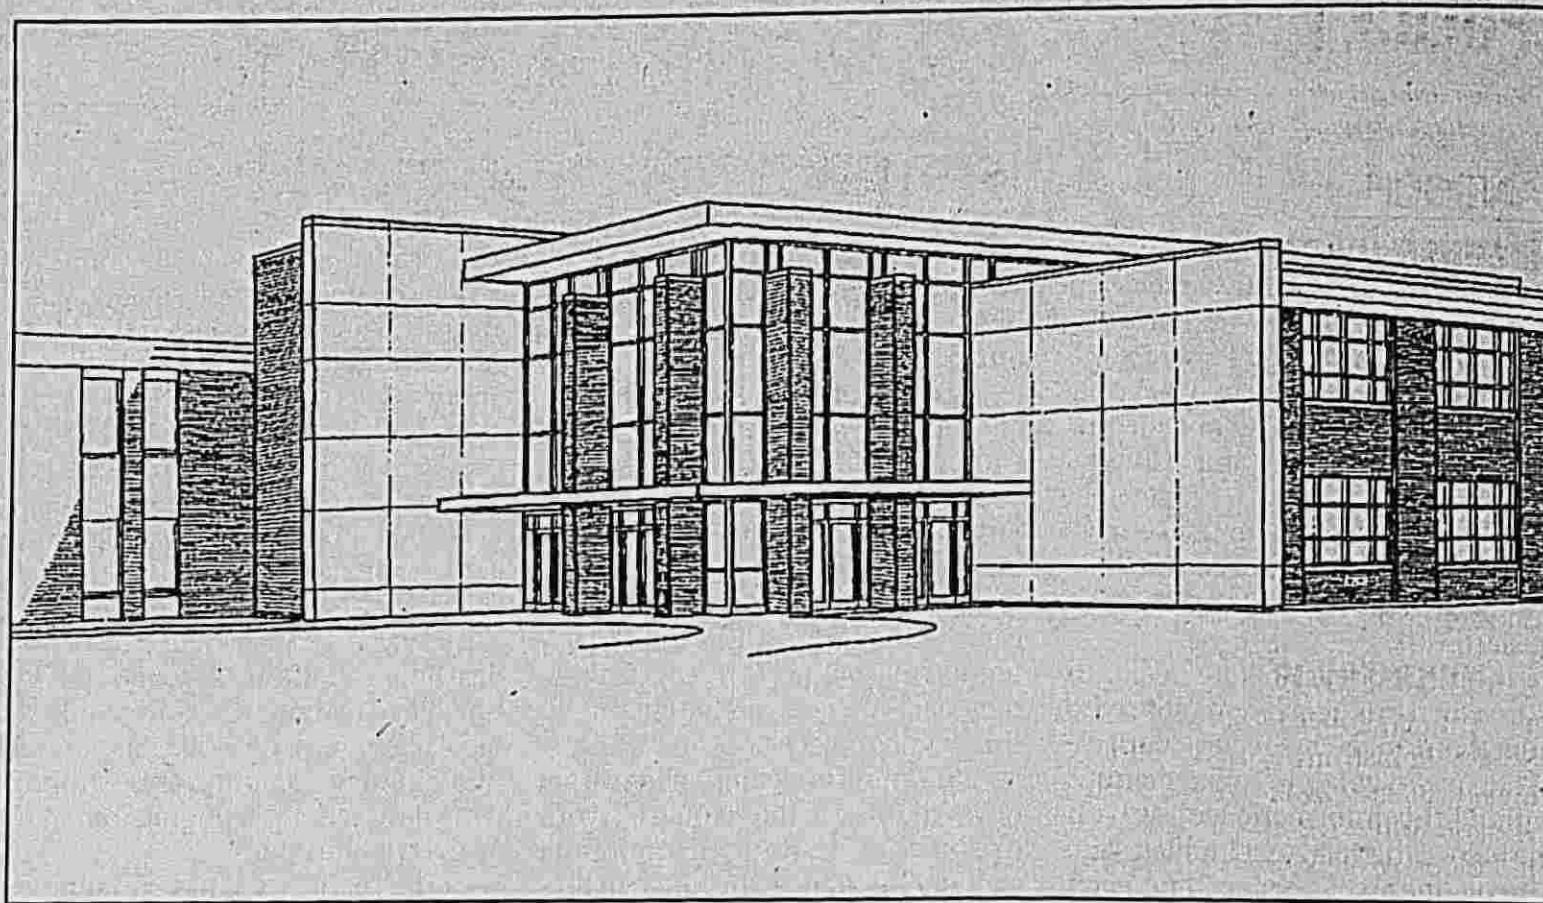

When his props scatter across the stage, Vandrush is unflappable. He watched an errant drinking glass sail off the table, looked behind him and muttered "Wind!" A very nice touch that reflects an actor in touch with his scene, his role, and his lines. His portrayal is vivid. One wishes his scenes with March Hare were longer. They are wonderful together.

Alice and the narrators dominate the production, but they consort with the two dozen cast members. Narrators Audra Waylander and Vita Gold move among the production to keep the audience focused. Both do well and give the production a strong spine from which to hang Alice's many encounters.

Alice is a standout. She carries the production on her strong dialogue, great timing, and energy-filled portrayal. She is Alice. She inspires confidence in her portrayal.

Costuming in this production is very creative. Alice sports a wonderful costume that helps her stand out and shapes her character. The ensemble is dressed in black except for character portrayals when they wear a quickly donned smock that immediately identifies them for their other role. This is inventive costuming on a budget and it works well.

This production should hit the road and visit area schools to spread some joy throughout the school system. It is a shame that there was only one weekend to see this production.

ACHS shows school plans to community groups

Antioch Community High School administrators are bringing information about the new school addition to Lake Villa, Lindenhurst, and Antioch community groups that want to know more about the $8 million modernization project.

"We are really proud of the plans for the building addition and remodeling and we want to share these plans," said District 117 Superintendent Dr. Dennis Hockney. "We think it is important that no one in the communities we serve be surprised by anything we do, especially something as big as this."

Hockney and Business Manager William Ahlers have already met with the Antioch Rotary Club and Lake Villa Township Lions Club to show artistic renderings and to discuss proposed changes to the building.

"If there is a group out there that would like for us to make a presentation, all they need to do is call me at 395-1421, ext. 210, and we will arrange a time to meet," Hockney said. "If there is a neighborhood that would like us to visit, and someone is willing to host us, we will be glad to go to that neighborhood. We have a lot to share."

The ACHS spring building addition and remodeling program is being undertaken without a tax increase to local residents. The school will build an addition on the north end of the existing building as well as a western addition.

The north addition will house new classrooms, new chemistry and physics labs, and foods, clothing, childcare, and applied technology labs.

The west addition will house new administrative offices and a new library.

"We are able to undertake this project through the issue of what are called Certificates of Participation, or COPs. These are very similar to bonds. The District makes an annual payment for 20 years to pay off the $8 million cost of this project," Hockney said.

Ahlers said, "The District will pay down the COPs through operating funds. This is possible because of certain efficiencies over the past several years, such as outsourcing support activities."

"Also, because the project calls for demolition of the older sections of the facility, we will be able to pledge certain tax revenues to the payment of the COPs," he said.

Meetings are coming up, and space is available for additional presentations, about the modernization program.

"Now we are going out into the communities we serve and sharing information about the building addition and remodeling that is planned," Hockney said.

Three public meetings are already scheduled. There is to be a presentation to the Antioch Village Board at 7 p.m. on March 2 at the Village Hall council chambers.

Hockney and Ahlers will make their presentation to a joint meeting of the Lindenhurst-Lake Villa and Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry at Antioch Community High School on April 1 at noon.

The third scheduled meeting is with the Antioch Woman's Club on April 8 at 1 p.m.

Hockney said it was his hope that additional meetings would be scheduled.

Sears seeks owner, operator for proposed Antioch retail store

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Sears wants to open a store in Antioch, but first they want to find a person to own and operate the store.

Sears Authorized Retail Dealer Stores offer exclusive Sears merchandise, brand name appliances, lawn and garden equipment, electronics, and tools.

"We really look for the person who has the best interests of customers at heart," said Sears Regional Development Director Dan Drilling. He is conducting the Antioch search for the right store owner.

"If we could find an owner, we would start immediately," he said.

Drilling is looking for a person who relates well to other people. The candidate also needs to be positively attracted to business and running a business. Outgoing, friendly people also have qualities that Drilling seeks.

"This is an outstanding opportunity for a dedicated individual to participate in one of the hottest retailing stores today. Since 1993, Sears has helped more than 500 entrepreneurs successfully open new stores in 48 states," Drilling said.

He encourages interested people to call him for details at 800-366-2764/pin 300 1490.

Sears wants a dealership in Antioch because of "location and demographics. It's a growing community. It's bursting," he said. An Antioch Sears Authorized Retail Dealer Store would be one of 15 in Illinois according to Drilling.

The selected candidate will be responsible for selecting the best suitable store site. Sears will not be looking for the site, said Drilling. However, the regional development manager will work closely with the future store owner on this part of the project.

"Leasing agents need to understand that they will be negotiating with the local owner," Drilling said. Sears has found that local owners generally negotiate better leases than does the Sears corporation.

Sears Authorized Retail Dealer Stores are intended to put Sears, Roebuck and Company in communities with populations of 15,000 to 40,000 people.

A $40,000 to $60,000 initial investment is required for the dealership. This covers insurance, supplies, fixtures, and working capital.

Martini:
Offering $500 for information on signs

Campaign signs for County Board Member Judy Martini (Dist. 1 - Antioch) have been reported stolen, and a reward is being offered to help find out who took them.

"I'm offering a reward of $500 that leads to the conviction of whoever is caught stealing my signs," said Martini. "I filed a report with the sheriff's department," she said.

"I'd say they've taken about 50 signs." The signs are approximately 8 square feet and cost about $12 apiece.

"They can call the sheriff's department and follow-up with a call to me," she said. She hopes that people can turn in a license plate number.

"I love my job, and I want to stay in office," she said.

She said that she will replace the signs that were stolen.

Martini, the incumbent, is one of three seeking the seat in the Republican primary, March 17.

Antioch cheerleaders qualify for state again

Varsity Cheerleaders continue 11-year tradition of competing at state meet; competition set for March 8

A tradition is something that is meant to be followed. The Antioch Varsity Cheerleaders have maintained a spot at the Illinois State competition for over 11 years in a row.

"These are very high standards to live up to and the girls work extremely hard to keep up the reputation they have earned," said Coach William Goetzelman.

The Antioch squad competed at the Libertyville invitational on Jan. 17. They earned a second place rating.

"Our next competition would be to qualify for state. We got more organized, more focused and finally more prepared for our next competition," said Captain Shannon Bonner.

The Stevenson regional was held on Feb. 1. "Competing at Stevenson is very stressful and it is known as one of the hardest regional competitions," said Betsy Sperling. Out of the 21 squads entering the much talked about Antioch Varsity were the last to take the floor. This competition was much larger than a normal regional. The girls were thrilled when they announced Antioch as first place.

The squad also qualified for the state competition on March 8 which will be held at Illinois State University. The girls are looking forward to it.

The Varsity Squad includes the following girls: Shannon Bonner-captain; Kate Davis, Alissa Grinde-captain; Jenny Gussarson, Laura Harvey, Abbie Honaker, Jamie Jorgensen, Candice Kasprzak, Lisa Marshall, Annie Mikal, Teri Mozal, Tiffanie Schneider, Kacy Sehmer, Betsy Sperling, Cathy Sperling

ACHS parents seek funds for post-prom odyssey

ALL represents ACHS parents from all three communities who plan Lake Michigan cruise

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Antioch Community High School parents are undertaking a final outreach for funds to finance their post-prom party on the Odyssey, one of Chicago's finest cruise boats.

A.L.L. Parent Network conducts fund-raising events to help subsidize the cost for the cruise and to provide 325 students with a safe alternative activity after the prom.

Antioch Community High School prom is Saturday, May 9 at the Marriott-Lincolnshire Resort.

The post prom activity starts after the dance and goes to 5 a.m. the next morning, May 10. Couples are driven to the Chicago Odyssey at Navy Pier in coach buses.

"It was gorgeous," said A.L.L. Parent Network member Ellen Ipsen of last year's trip on the Odyssey. "The kids love it."

The fund raising letter seeks contributions from community members and business organizations. People and businesses are encouraged to send donations to the A.L.L. Parent Network, Post Office Box 713, Antioch, 60002.

A.L.L. Parent Network conducts other fund raisers to help subsidize the costs of the post-prom party. Red-ribbon week in the Fall is a major source of funds.

"Our biggest fund-raiser is the red-ribbon week." Parents sell red ribbons at intersections. "We make about $8,000," Ipsen said.

Funds raised by the parents are invested in a parent-chaperoned, substance-free Lake Michigan cruise that extends the positive romantic magic of the high school prom evening. However, it costs money.

There are two disc jockeys, two food bars, and two soft-drink areas. "We have raffle prizes—Bears tickets, Sox tickets, a nice pair of jeans," she said. Other prizes also are offered.

Two floors of the four-deck Odyssey are reserved for ACHS prom goers. "We walk and wander the floors," said Ipsen of the parent chaperones who attend for free.

Parents help resolve disputes and promote positive behavior. ACHS faculty and staff resources also are available to resolve difficult matters.

"The crew is unbelievable on the Odyssey," Ipsen said. She believes that their professionalism, presence, and attention to providing fine service and a great cruise experience is a major factor in the high quality of the event for the students.

"They've never had problems with Antioch Community High School and our students," Ipsen said.

Post-prom party costs are substantial, however. Students pay $20 per person to attend, which is half the cost to board the boat. Nine coach buses for transportation is $5,625. A.L.L. Parent Network makes up the cost difference to help keep the evening a realistic financial option for students.

"The girls seem to pay for the post prom," Ipsen said. Male students pay for many of the prom costs. She said that for many students the cruise seems to have taken the place of a large pre-prom dinner. On the cruise ship in past years, there have been four tables packed with hot and cold hors d'oeuvres. Later, at a certain point in the cruise, Ipsen said that the tables have been packed with sweets.

"They all come on the boat absolutely starved," she said of the students. "There has never been a shortage of food," she said. "The guys love it."

A.L.L. Parent Network is named for the three communities from which high school students come—Antioch, Lake Villa, and Lindenhurst. The organization represents over 400 high school households. Since 1990, the mission of the group has been to increase communication between parents, to encourage enforcement of curfew hours, and to help children participate in substance-free activities. To help parents communicate among one another, the organization publishes a telephone directory so parents may contact their children's friend's parents about matters of mutual concern.

Ipsen said that the post-prom party provides parents with benefits also. "We try to make it very nice for the parents. They can relax," Ipsen said that parents find it relaxing to know their children are involved in a positive event.

Village welcomes small audience to safety referendum meeting

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Village officials turned out to meet a small audience of voters on Monday, Feb. 23 to describe Antioch's request for $2.5 million to build new public safety facilities.

Police Chief Charles Watkins, Assistant Chief of the Fire Department Kevin Kelly, and Village Administrator Tim Wells spoke of the deficiencies and limitations for public safety of existing structures and the expected improvements that new fire and police facilities will provide the village.

Approximately 20 citizens were present with 16 fire, police, and village officials to discuss the referendum.

Watkins described the public safety, prisoner management, and professional police development limitations of the building police now use. He then described how a new station designed for police work would improve citizen safety. In addition, it would be possible to better address legal requirements imposed on police work, on evidence security, for prisoner treatment, and for department personnel issues.

"I think, in general, we've outgrown our offices," said Watkins.

Kelly said that for the Fire Department there are two key concerns. The first is the matter of trains on Wisconsin Central Railroad tracks passing through town and stopping fire equipment responding to a fire on the east side of the village.

"It's something that's concerned us for years," he said.

The second concern is the amount of new development and population growth on the east side of the tracks and projections for it to increase.

A new police station built on Orchard Street east of the existing fire station would be two stories and 65 feet by 125 feet. It would contain a cell block that complies with federal law. Three cells would accommodate male prisoners, plus one cell for women, and a juvenile facility. The public would be separated from any possible encounters with prisoners.

The fire substation on Deep Lake Road north of Depot Street will be built on three acres. It will be able to hold four pieces of fire fighting equipment. The substation is intended to provide a first response to east side fire calls.

"Fire grows exponentially," Kelly said. Therefore, it is important that apparatus be at the scene of a fire as soon as possible to save lives and buildings.

Questions from the audience focused on details about the proposed building designs, the need to have one referendum for two proposed facilities, and the cost to pay the bonds.

Tim Wells said that both police and fire department buildings are on a common referendum because they are each concerned with public safety. "We can't separate what is the more important public safety use," He said that they are equally important.

Lordy, Lordy, Kim is forty

Well, it's time to wish a Happy 40th birthday to one of Antioch's finest—Kim Pocrnich. It couldn't happen to a nicer person. Any of you who have the pleasure of knowing Kim, know what a really swell kind of gal she is. As a tribute to the upcoming event, the wall in her office is covered with special birthday cards sent these past couple of months by some phantom friend. Can't imagine who within in her circle of friends has the time to search out those oh-so-perfect cards for this special birthday girl.

Kim is truly a remarkable person. She always seems perfectly put together with her coiffure hair, manicured nails, stylish clothing, and that ever flattering Mary Kay face. Of course, a lot of times that Mary Kay face is streaked with tears as the woman has a tendency to cry in a blink of an eye. The slightest thing will set her dropping—I once saw her cry at the Ice Capades for heaven sakes. Now, although Kim has never actually bore any children of her own, she is no stranger to their demands. She occasionally will borrow someone's kid, spoil them rotten for a couple of hours, then send home to mom and dad who have to deal with an over tired, sugar-filled, little brat. All the kids love "Aunt" Kim.

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

Nobody can ever accuse Kim of being a fake. Even with her new teeth, lasered eyes, sculptured nails, and colored hair, she is still a genuine person under all the superficial hoop-la. She just wants to be a perfectly-in-order person. While most of us reach middle age with a couple of added pounds, a few more sags and greying hair, Kim has maintained her svelte figure and brilliant locks. Granted she has never used her hips to birth a child or her breasts to suckle a baby, but in all actuality had she ever produced any offspring, you can be sure she would be one of those who gains a mere five pounds during pregnancy only to expel an eight pound, superbly formed, bouncing baby, complete with polished nails and perfectly arched eyebrows. The hair thing though is a mystery seeing as the woman changes the color as often as the rest of us change our undergarments. Anyone remember that lovely shade of red she donned there for awhile? It was a mystery why one day at her office everyone was wearing sunglasses until you entered her cubicle and caught a glimpse of that red hair above that red sweater she had on—thank goodness that one didn't last long.

Kim has never long completely grown up—she has always been a kid at heart. She still has her collection of ratty old Barbie dolls, she prefers dogs over children, and she has even been known to drop a bundle on certain Kids Meals at Burger King, just for the sporty little toy inside. She still sees a dermatologist for her acne but doesn't believe for a minute because she exists on nothing but M and M's and junk food that has anything to do with the appearance of those nasty little whiteheads. She has never wore a size over a child's 6X and she is always dabbling in make-up. And although she managed to obtain a driver's license even with her youthful looks—she drives like an idiot. (I speak from experience.) So let's all take a minute to wish Kim a truly happy birthday and hope she retains her good sense of fashion and humor. Happy Birthday.

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle."

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

GROWING UP WITH GOOD POSTURE

Every parent wants their children to grow up to be attractive and healthy adults. Teaching good posture is a good way to give your child a good start in that direction. How do you teach something like good posture?

Many people rely on the parental nag—"Stand up straight!" Although watching your children develop bad habits is frustrating, nagging really doesn't change things. If your child shows any indication of a spinal defect or distortion, you should seek professional help early. Chiropractic care can help young people correct bad posture before it can cause any serious health problems in early adulthood. We can recommend certain activities, such as dance and movement classes and properly supervised athletic programs, which will teach your child to sit, stand, and walk "tall," and promote good posture and spinal health.

If maintaining your health is important to you, call Round Lake Beach Chiropractic at 847-740-2800 to make an initial, no obligation consultation with Dr. Scott G. Reiser. Dr. Reiser has served the Lake and McHenry County area for over 10 years. Let his knowledge and experience serve you. Dr. Reiser's clinic is located at 314 Rollins Road, Round Lake Beach (Eagle Creek Plaza - corner of Cedar Lake and Rollins Roads).

Playoffs leave Lake County teams in dust

The girls playoffs have begun, and after the first few rounds of the Warren Sectional, none of the teams in Lakeland's coverage area remain active.

After the first two rounds of the sectionals, all Lakeland's teams—Wauconda, Grant, Johnsbury, Grayslake, Antioch, Libertyville, Mundelein, Carmel, and Round Lake—were knocked out of the tourney play. Except one—Warren. The Lady Blue Devils reached the Sectional semifinals, but lost to a strong Lake Forest team after a 27-win season—best in school history. Antioch's Jeff Ultes took second at 171-pounds at the state tournament over the weekend, while Libertyville's Dan Cysewski, the favorite at 140-pounds, fell short and placed fourth after an undefeated year.

Antioch boys win two

Sequoits ready for playoffs

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Friday was a good day to be an Antioch Sequoit—past or present. On a night when the school honored its coach who led ACHS to the Elite Eight, the Sequoits continued their late-season charge with a convincing 75-64 win over Libertyville.

While Roger Andrews, the former ACHS coach, took his accolades at halftime and post-game, ACHS took it to the North Suburban Conference runners-up. The debut of Dave Gooch in the lineup and 27 points from Chris Groth and 18 from Don Lackey inspired the Sequoits.

Libertyville (12-12 overall) dropped to 8-5 in the NSC while ACHS is 7-6 and gained another win with a 57-54 non-conference home win over Prospect.

Gooch, a senior, suffered a knee injury as he quarterbacked for ACHS the first football game last September.

"The turning point in the rehab was when I started to jog. I used the weight deck to train and it feels pretty good," said Gooch.

Gooch played in each quarter and scored a second period field goal and had three rebounds.

He said he did what he could to encourage his teammates during time off, which ended sooner than originally expected. His younger brother Quinn, a freshman, said that came regarding the defensive end.

"Maybe we can have some momentum going into the tournament," he said.

"We only had Dave in practice for three days, but that helps us," said Lackey.

"We worked the pick and roll to open up for the big guys. Mike Nielsen and Brian Soldano did a great job. On defense, we just wanted to shut Oboikowitch down. That is why we went with a smaller group," said ACHS coach Jeff Dresser.

ACHS led by 15 points at halftime and the margin quickly grew to 19 when Soldano scored on an assist from Lackey with 2:25 left.

The Wildcats could get no closer than 12 points in the final 10 minutes.

"They don't give out trophies for second place. But you want to be playing hard this time of the season going into the tournament. This is why they work so hard," said Libertyville coach Max Sanders.

Brian Hamlett scored 23 points for the Wildcats, but center Oboikowitch was held in check with 16 points.

"Hamlet tried to do too much at times. He would go one-on-one and the rest would stand and watch," said Sanders.

The home court was again to ACHS' liking against Prospect. Groth scored 25 points and Lackey 11 in the win. ACHS (16-9) held off a late charge by the Knights.

ACHS finished the NSC season at Mundelein. The Sequoits, the sixth seed in the Waukegan sectional, host Deerfield March 4. Grant is at Libertyville March 4 in another first-round clash.

Basketball recap: The third time proved to be charming for Antioch High girls basketball fans.

Antioch suffered two league defeats to North Chicago by double digit points, but came back with a win in the post-season. ACHS downed the Warhawks 43-34 as the Sequoits executed the game plan of steady offense and intense defense.

"Not too many people gave us a chance against North Chicago because they had beaten us by double digits. This was the first time we played them when everyone was healthy. We played real well. The key was not letting the Colemans (Krystal and Kathy) and Denise Greathouse get the ball. Our rotation on defense was great, very quick," said ACHS coach Dave Woods. Brown led the way with 16 points. Nicole Langley had 15 and Amy Carlberg eight.

The Sequoits had a Jeckyll and Hyde game at the free-throw line. They were 4-of-9 in the second quarter but improved to 8-of-10 when the Warhawks had to foul late. Langley was 3-of-4, while Brown and Carlberg made their two attempts.

Antioch held North Chicago to single digits in the first three quarters in building up an 11-point lead.

Kathy Coleman led the Warhawks with 15 points. Greathouse did not score until the fourth quarter.

Woods knew his team would be up against an tough foe in the Scouts for the regional title. "Sarah Spain and Janie Hodgkinson are good players. We have to slow the game down, hit some outside shots and have a perfect game of we are going to have a chance," said Woods.

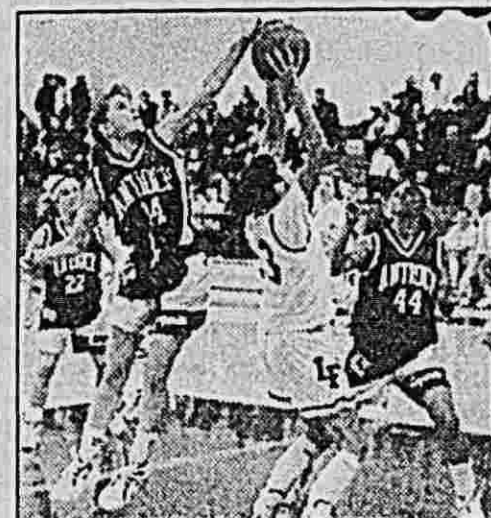

The Sequoits had a game plan and largely followed it but found themselves against a team bound for a sectional final in Lake Forest. The Scouts romped 50-19.

"Lake Forest is playing really well. The North Chicago game took a lot out of us. You could see that in practice," said Woods. "I knew it would be a low-scoring game and we would have 25 points or less. I just hoped they would have 24."

Langley was named all-NSC and Aja Brown had consistent years, said Woods.

Erin Rippe, a junior, made good strides as she replaced injured Kelly Stryck. A talented group of underclassmen played on all three teams.

ACHS sophomore girls learn, win in second half

STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

The Class of 2001 and 2002 girls basketball players spent time on three different levels for Antioch High this year.

Some were on the frosh team, others the sophomores and still others made their way to the varsity.

"We had four freshmen called up early in the year. I was pleased with our progress. We were 2-10 at the start, but we split the last 10 games," said ACHS sophomore girls coach Don Zeman.

ACHS' sophomore team also include freshmen and finished 7-15.

Sophomore Kaeleen O'Connell is a 5-8 forward who has versatile skills such as defense, scoring and rebounding.

Freshmen contributing included Justene Sinkus with rebounding and defense, point guard Emily Niles and forward-guard Kelly Gofron.

Zeman noted Niles' effort in directing the offense.

Another freshman, Katieanne Pechauer, was called up to the varsity in mid-season.

Other team members are: sophomore Becky Clark, Jenny Rosen, Brittany Cable, Lisa Huber, Margaret Fischer and Amanda Rozewicz. Freshmen pitching in include Amy Groleau.

Cubs fans

With baseball season looming on the horizon, one fan can't help but look to Arizona, where all the hopes and dreams of the summer rests on the shoulders of the men in blue.

That's right, I'm a Cub fan and I'm proud to admit it. I'm proud to announce that my team finished in last place last year. I'm proud to announce that my hopes and dreams would be fulfilled if the Cubs finish first this year.

I'm a true north side fan. Cubs rule, no questions asked.

Others on this page will announce that they are, in fact, fans of another team. A team that hails from the south side of the Windy city, and is, in fact, spawned from Satan himself.

He is a dreaded Sox Fan. Though, I do not often share the beliefs of the masses on many issues in the world, I have learned that one can either be a Cubs Fan or a Sox Fan, yet never both. I have thrown to the side of the Cubs for numerous reasons.

My first and foremost reason is simple. There's nothing like the feeling of walking from the gangways at Wrigley Field, out to the field and looking over the wonder that is Wrigley. The ivy in bloom, the old time scoreboard, the bleachers, it's truly an amazing feeling.

Secondly, we are the eternal losers. We haven't won a pennant since the early 1900's. Yet, rather than shy away from that fact, we applaud it. We state things like "Wait till next year!", knowing that next year may never come. We are the eternal optimists of the world, as opposed to the "die hards" of Comiskey, who won't show their faces unless they're team is above .500 in the win column.

The Cubs are the team of Chicago, not Satan's team from the south side. Even Sammy Sosa, former Sox player and current Cubs superstar, knows what side of town to root for. The Cubs side.

Sox fans

Yes, now with football over and basketball and hockey each coming down the final stretch, it's just about time to start talking baseball.

Inevitably in this part of the country, baseball talk means the Chicago Cubs. Why? Why invest your time, energy, and undying loyalty in a team that hasn't, doesn't and won't win anytime soon?

If you're a fan of the Cubs because of regional locality and proximity—as many fans support the team nearest where they live—why not root for a team that is actually trying to win games and put a quality team on the field. That team comes from Chi-Town's south side and goes by the name of the White Sox.

When asked why they support the team, a Cubs fan's first response is almost always "Because of the great atmosphere and history of Wrigley Field."

When a Sox fan is asked the same question, the first response is team and player oriented. Sox fans talk about baseball strategies and tendencies, not about the ambience of a fading landmark or the lure of some green leaves growing over brick walls.

Sox fans go to Comiskey to watch baseball. They understand the pitching and hitting matchups, and have confidence that management is doing what it can to build a champion.

The White Sox actually care about winning, and the trades and acquisitions reflect that.

The Cubs, on the other hand, have no desire to put a quality team on the field. North side management seems content to rake in the dough that comes from a full stadium due to a laid-back atmosphere from yuppies who want to "experience" Wrigley Field, not watch a competitive baseball game.

So if you want to take in the Wrigley Field experience, go watch the Cubs lose with little or no effort. But if you're a true baseball fan, interested in seeing competitive baseball, go down under and cheer on the Sox.

LAKE VILLA TOWNSHIP - LAUNCH USE RULES SECTION I BOATING REGULATIONS The provisions of the State of Illinois Boat Registration and Safety Act, as now enacted or hereafter amended, are incorporated by reference and made a part of these regulations as fully as if set forth verbatim herein. GENERAL REGULATIONS Every boat operator is required to know the Boat Registration and Safety Act. Any violation of such act is a violation of these regulations i.e.; proper lights must be displayed on any boats operating between sunset and sunrise. The racing of Powerboats is not permitted. No boat shall be operated in any restricted areas which are marked by buoys, rafts or other appropriate designation. No docking or beaching of boats is permitted in any area, or on the shoreline of a privately owned lot unless the owner has previously given permission. Temporary beaching is allowed at the launch site only for the purpose of loading and unloading of boats. Any boat operator involved in a boating accident must report such accident to the Lake County Sheriff's Department. The Sheriff's Department enforces boating regulations and will be ticketing boaters on Miltmore and Sand Lakes. REGISTRATION OF BOATS Any boat operated upon the lake must be registered with the State of Illinois. All such boats must clearly display the State Registration number. SPEED LIMITS Boats must never exceed a speed which is safe and reasonable for the prevailing conditions, and never above 40 M.P.H. No boat should exceed a slow, "NO WAKE" speed while within an absolute minimum of 100 feet from the shoreline of restricted areas. "NO WAKE" means flat water without any froth behind the boat, a maximum of 5 M.P.H. No Powerboats should exceed a speed of 10 M.P.H. before 10:00 A.M. Traffic flow for Powerboats should be in a generally counterclockwise direction around the lake. SECTION II WATER SKIING REGULATIONS GENERAL REGULATIONS The provisions of the State of Illinois Boat Registration and Safety Act, as now enacted or hereafter amended, are incorporated by reference and made a part of these regulations as fully as if set forth verbatim herein and have been adopted by the Board to be applicable to all water skiing activities on the lake. Any violation of state law is a violation of these regulations. Neither a Powerboat towing a skier nor the towed skier may enter any "NO WAKE" restricted areas which are marked by buoys or other appropriate designation. All skiers must remain 100 feet from the shore or 50 feet outwardly of buoys, rafts or other markers designating restricted areas. The intentional "dropping" of one or more skis is not permitted except down-wind and within 100 feet outwardly of the shoreline or 50 feet outwardly of the buoys, rafts or other restricted areas. Ski "STARTS" and "STOPS" must not begin or end at the Lake Villa Township owned shoreline. When towing a person on skis, tubes, etc., a driver and at least one observer must be in the boat.

HOURS FOR SKIING No water skiing should take place before 10:00 A.M. Illinois law prohibits water skiing after sundown. SECTION III SWIMMING FROM A BOAT Any swimmers beyond buoyed areas shall only be from a boat and accompanied by at least one observer.

SECTION IV INTOXICATION; DRUG USAGE No person shall operate a watercraft while the alcohol concentration in such person's blood or breath is 0.08 or more based on the definition of blood and breath units in section 11-501.2 of the Illinois Vehicle Code, as amended; or any other drug to the degree which renders them incapable of safely operating such watercraft.

SECTION V BOAT LAUNCH GATES Locked gates are in place at the Lake Miltmore and Sand Lake Boat Launches. Keys to the boat launch gates may be purchased at the township office annually beginning April 1st. A fee schedule for residents/seasonal residents and non-residents is available at the township office and proof of residency/seasonal residency is required to qualify for the reduced fee. The Lake Villa Township Parks Ordinance 98 and a park sticker will be provided with the key purchase. Boat launch users must ensure that the gate is locked after launching and removal of the watercraft to prevent unauthorized use of the lake. Boat Launch keys will fit both Sand Lake and Lake Miltmore Launches. Your key is for your personal use only. Transferring or loaning your key to unauthorized individuals shall result in suspension of your launch use privileges. LAKE MILTMORE SWIMMING BEACH RULES REGULATED BY THE ILLINOIS DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC HEALTH The Lake Miltmore Swimming Beach owned and operated by Lake Villa Township is open Memorial Day through Labor Day. The following rules govern beach use and will be enforced. The beach water is not suitable for drinking. Avoid swallowing beach water.

Admission to the beach may be refused to all persons having any contagious disease, infectious conditions such as colds, fever, ringworm, foot infections, skin lesions, carbuncles, boils, diarrhea, vomiting, inflamed eyes, ear discharges, or any other condition which has the appearance of being infectious. Persons with excessive sunburn, abrasions which have not healed, corn plasters, bunion pads, adhesive tape, rubber bandages, or other bandages of any kind may also be refused admittance. A person under the influence of alcohol or exhibiting erratic behavior shall not be permitted in the beach area. Littering is prohibited. In addition, no food, drink, gum, or tobacco is allowed in the water. Glass containers are prohibited throughout the beach area. All infants shall wear tight fitting rubber or plastic pants. No lifeguards are on duty. No one should swim alone. Persons under the age of 17 must be accompanied by a responsible person 17 years of age or older. Personal conduct within the beach must be such that safety is not jeopardized. Diving in shallow water is not permitted. Caution shall be exercised in the use of diving facilities.

No pets are allowed in the beach area. Feeding of the wildlife in the beach area is prohibited. Lake Villa Township is providing a pay phone for public safety as required by the Illinois Swimming Pool and Bathing Beach Code. The beach cannot remain open unless there is accessibility to a phone. Should the public phone be damaged to the extent that it is inoperable, you are required to bring a portable phone while at the beach. The Lake County Health Department recommends that persons refrain from swimming 24-48 hours after a rain event because of the higher levels of bacteria that may be present.

Swimmers itch caused by water fowl fecal material may be controlled by bathing with soap and water soon after swimming in the lake.

ENFORCEMENT; FINES AND PENALTIES Any vehicle violating any of the restrictions of this Ordinance may be towed at the owner's expense. Any person violating any of the parking restrictions set forth in this Ordinance shall be fined $50.00 for each violation. Each day shall be considered a separate violation. Any person violating any other clause, provision or section of this Ordinance shall be asked to leave and fined not less than $50.00 nor more than $500.00 for each violation. Each day shall be considered a separate violation.

SEVERABILITY If any provision of this Ordinance or the application thereof to any person or circumstances is held invalid, the invalidity shall not affect the provisions or applications of this Ordinance which can be given effect without the invalid provisions or applications, and to this end the provisions of this Ordinance are declared to be severable.

REPEAL OF PRIOR ORDINANCES; EFFECTIVE DATE OF ORDINANCE All ordinances in conflict or inconsistent with any provisions of this Ordinance are hereby repealed, and this Ordinance shall be in full force from and after its passage and approval and publication in pamphlet form. Adopted this 13th day of January, 1998. Susan C. Hanson, Lake Villa Township Supervisor.

A list of accomplishments only partially describes Linda's abilities. She conducts herself as a leader in group efforts through her ability to keep discussions focused and constructive, yet solicit input from all members. She is concerned for all people of the community and will make decisions based on the best possible outcome for those involved. It has been my pleasure to be associated with Linda on multiple efforts, both personal and professional, and can attest that's Linda's input and spirit has made Antioch a better place to live.

Healthcare Charges... are exploding!

NBA HAS FOUND A SOLUTION TO HEALTH INSURANCE FOR YOUR FAMILY —

The National Business Association has found a solution to the problem of quality affordable health insurance coverage for you and your family. The Preferred Provider Plan, a PPO medical insurance program endorsed by the NBA and underwritten by American National Life Insurance Company of Texas, means reasonable insurance premiums for quality health insurance coverage. So you'll be protected the next time you or your family needs medical care.

The Preferred Provider Plan works because it helps control your health care costs, resulting in rates which can save you money. And it's now available for you to look over and consider with absolutely no obligation.

The Preferred Provider Plan was designed with you in mind...

- $2 million maximum per each insured person
- Rates are guaranteed for one year
- You cannot be singled out for rate increases
- You cannot be singled out for cancellation
- Continuous coverage 24 hours a day, 7 days a week
- Use PPO network providers or the physician of your choice

Group Policy Number NXM000030 is underwritten by American National Life Insurance Company of Texas. Benefits are reduced for use of out-of-network providers. A licensed NBA agent/enroller may contact you with details, including exclusions or limitations, as well as information regarding other NBA benefits.

For FREE information about this outstanding plan, return the attached postage-paid card.

Yes!

I'm tired of growing medical expenses. Please rush me more information about The Preferred Provider Plan and the National Business Association. I understand that requesting more information does not obligate me in any way.

Mail this postage-paid reply card and we will see to it that you receive complete details to examine in your own home at no obligation.

- ☐ Having Trouble Finding a Good, Honest Mechanic? Now you have!
- ☐ Drivability Problems? We'll tune your car to factory specifications!

Hello, my name is Jose M. Escobedo. I recently opened an auto repair shop at the "Amoco" at Rt. 41 and Rt. 173 in Wadsworth. I have over 11 A.S.E. certified years of repairing and servicing thousands of cars and trucks. Before opening this location I worked as the Manager/Head mechanic at the Morton Grove Amoco for 6 years. I constantly stay up-to-date of the latest technology in computerized auto-mechanics and have developed excellent troubleshooting, repair and tune-up skills.

Our shop is completely automated with 2 computerized diagnostic machines, 4 bays, and quick reliable service. I opened my shop here because I know it is always difficult to find a good mechanic. Now you have.

Come in and try us for one of the specials listed on the opposite side of this flyer, or for any mechanical, electrical, drivability problem or just a great tune-up. I promise to deliver honesty, straight answers, reasonable rates, and reliable service.

LEGAL NOTICE

February 1998

Dear Lake County Voter:

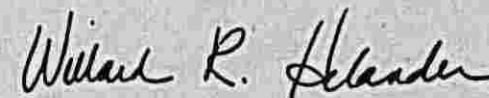

We are pleased to provide this Voter Information Guide for your use in the March 17, 1998 General Primary Election. On Tuesday, March 17, you may choose to vote a ballot for one of the major political parties or select a nonpartisan ballot to vote only on any referendum question.

The ballot pages are presented in the following order: Democratic, Republican, Reform and Nonpartisan. To locate the pages containing candidates and any public questions for which you are entitled to vote, refer to your blue Certificate of Voter Registration card. Below the fold line you will see a list of the units of government for which you are entitled to vote. Units of government common to all Lake County voters including U.S. President, U.S. Senate, state-wide and county-wide offices are not listed due to space limitations. If your blue card is not readily available, please call us at 360-6628 for assistance.

Your precinct number and polling location are also listed on the blue card. When a polling facility declines to continue as a voting site, we send new blue cards with updated information. Please take the time to verify your polling place in the last three pages of this guide to be sure the blue registration card you carry has the most current location. All polling locations are listed by Township in precinct number order. Any changes to voting locations occurring after the April 1997 election are listed in bold. All polling places are accessible for the disabled.

All of us in the County Clerk's office are dedicated to providing you the best possible service. Please do not hesitate to call us at 360-6628, or use our new TTY/TDD service at 625-7220, if you have questions or need clarification about the voting process on election day.

Be a HANDS ON participant in democracy. . . become an ELECTION JUDGE!

We have recruited more than 800 new election judges in Lake County over the last 2 years. However, a number of dedicated election judges are off to warmer climates this time of year. For the Tuesday, March 17 General Primary Election, a few judges are still needed to work in Gurnee, Mundelein, Lake Villa, Deerfield, Buffalo Grove, Long Grove and Highland Park. There are several basic training classes still available, and trained judges will receive $90 pay. Judges willing to travel outside their local area receive additional pay.

To find out more information about becoming an election judge,

Limerick Lounge women pool players dominate league

By RHONDA HETRICK BURKE
Managing Editor

Billiards. Pool. Whatever you call the game, Paul Newman knew how to make it look sexy in the late 1980s film, "The Color of Money," and so do Patty Hermes and her four female teammates.

The women have downed all comers for the past three seasons in the Lake Villa-Antioch Township Billiards Association (LV-ATSBA).

Pool has been a game of intrigue and challenge and good-natured fun in the pool halls of Lake County for a century, but for the last two decades, it has also been an organized sport.

The LV-ATSBA is an icon in local pool halls organizing men's, co-ed and yes, a women's league, where competition is the name of the game.

The Limerick Lounge-sponsored team of five women has been undefeated in three straight seasons—a feat unmatched by other teams in the league.

Hermes was the number one player in the league this past season. Other team members are: Terry Taylor, team captain; Judy Konstans, Mars Swoboda, Jodi Warmouth and substitute Linda King.

Hermes has been playing pool around Lake County since she was a teenager growing up in Fox Lake. She has been in the league for at least 14 years.

"My dad got me interested in playing pool," she said. "As I got older, I got involved in the league because it is great fun. It's a girl's night out."

The hard-drinking, fast-moving image of pool players in the movies may not fit this team of women, four of whom own their own businesses and most of which are moms, but they also admit that a night out with the pool league is a night out in the bar.

"This is a great sport," Hermes said. "More women should get involved in the league. It is a chance to get out of the house for the night, party with the girls and learn a sport you can play anywhere."

The LV-ATSBA has a fall and winter season each year. The fall season runs from September through December and the winter season from January through April. The Limerick Lounge's women's A-team has been undefeated for three of those seasons.

How does the pool league work? Each team member plays three games per night and is awarded points based on the number of balls left on the table at the end of the game. The league plays "call your shot" billiards. A total of 15 games is played in a nightly "match." The Limerick Lounge team was successful in outscoring their "A-league" opponents each night of the last three 14-week seasons.

Additionally, team members have held four of the top five individual point totals for the league in the last three seasons. Hermes was first for the fall 1997 season. Taylor was first for the spring of 1997.

There are 60 players in the women's league which play at 32 sponsored bars around the Chain O'Lakes area.

The LV-ATSBA runs both an A and B team in each division, so even the most amateur of players can find a spot on the roster.

"Pool players come from all backgrounds and the league has a wide age range. Many of the local bars sponsor teams and have information on joining the league," said Dorothy "Doe" Steiskal, treasurer of the league. Steiskal has been active in the league for about 12 years.

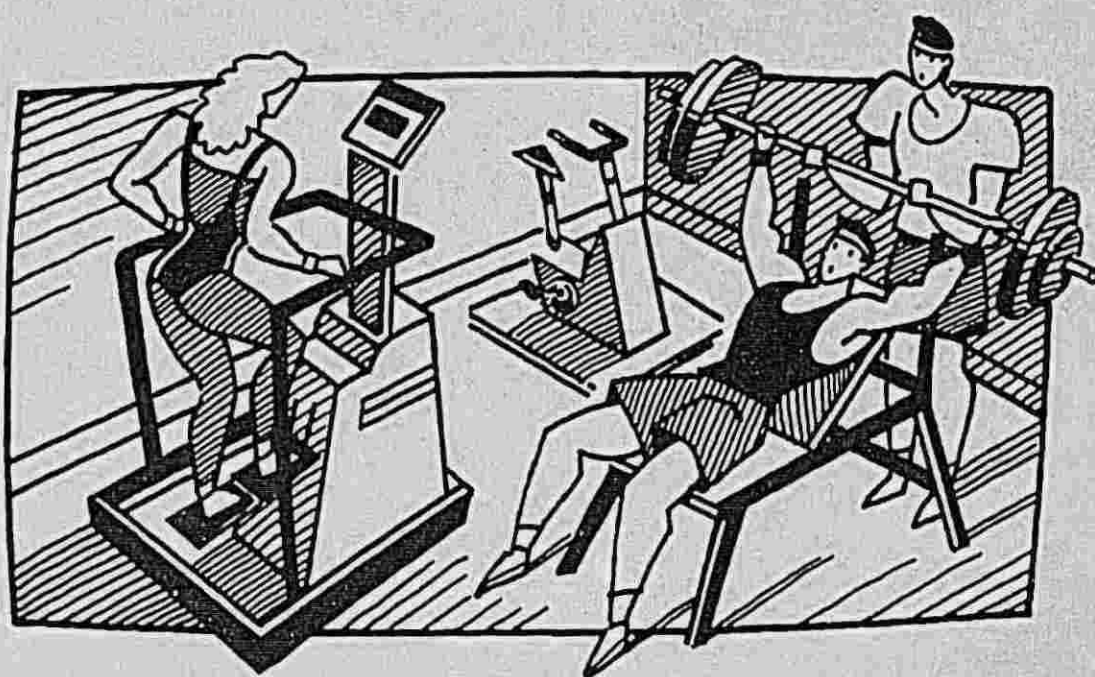

"It is just a lot of fun," she said. "It's a great game and there is a lot of camaraderie. It makes you feel

'Wizard of Oz'

Tickets are on sale for "The Wizard of Oz" at the Rosemont Theatre, March 21 to April 5. Mickey Rooney and Eartha Kitt star in the stage production of the 1939 movie classic.

The stage play unfolds in a black-and-white setting, the same imagery as the original movie. As Kansas is struck by the tornado and Dorothy's house settles in Munchkinland, a kaleidoscope of color surrounds the audience. Dorothy then begins her journey through Oz, encountering Glinda the Good Witch, the citizens of Munchkinland, The Wicked Witch of the West and the Wizard, himself.

Rooney, portraying the Wizard, is a film veteran who has twice been nominated for an Academy Award. Eartha Kitt is a veteran of stage, screen, cabaret and the recording industry, and is one of a handful of performers to be nominated for a Tony, an Emmy and a Grammy. Jessica Grove, 15, from Columbus, Ohio, portrays Dorothy.

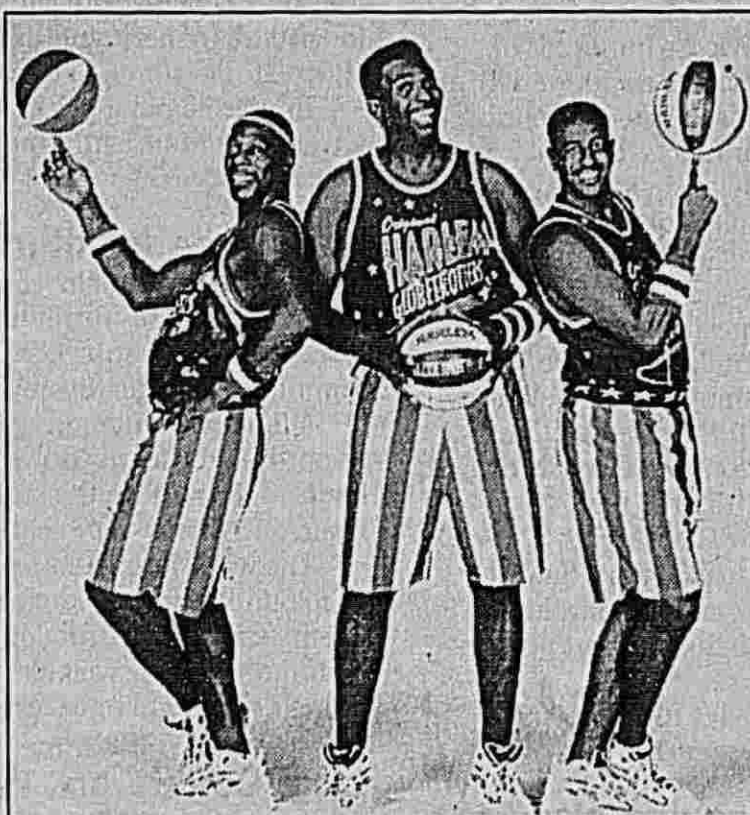

Performances of "The Wizard of Oz" are scheduled beginning Tuesday,

A Weekend In Paris

by JIM WARNKEN
President, North Star Travel

This time of year, taking time for lunch is a luxury, so my time away from the office is limited.

But Paris for the weekend?

Why not. With airfare to Europe as low as it's been this winter, I would spend more money on a weekend in Chicago. Besides, it was Valentine's Day and bringing my best girl to Paris sure beats flowers.

We flew out on Air France at around 9 PM on Friday night, landed at Charles de Gaulle Airport in Paris around noon. After clearing customs we boarded one of Paris' suburban express trains (RER) and within 35 minutes, we were within a block of our hotel.

We chose to stay at the Hotel D'Albe, in the historical Latin Quarter, where we were greeted by our friendly and always smiling hostess, Brigitte. Our choice of hotel and area could not have been better.

After checking in, we took a very small elevator (capacity two) to our room and were pleasantly surprised to find we had a private balcony overlooking the cobblestoned Rue De La Harpe and could even see Notre Dame Cathedral across the Seine.

We quickly showered and headed out for the afternoon. The weather was perfect. Sixty degrees and sunny is unusual for Paris in February.

Within a couple of hours, we visited the Eiffel Tower, Napoleon's tomb, the Arc de Triomphe and the famous shopping street, the Avenue Des Champs Elysees. We even saw the tunnel where Princess Diane met her fate. There is already a monument to this fine lady covered with notes and mementoes from admirers.

After a quick snack (next trip we've got to try one of Paris' fine restaurants) we took the efficient underground (Metro) back to our hotel for a short nap, before exploring Paris at night.

Paris really is the "City of Lights". Every monument, church and bridge is bathed in spotlights!

We were up at 9 AM the next morning for a French breakfast at our hotel before checking out around 11 AM.

Since our plane didn't leave until 4 PM, we left our bags with Brigitte and still had time to visit Notre Dame (hard to imagine a 1,000 year old building when you come from a 200 year old country) and the Louvre (lines too long, maybe next time).

We just had time to buy a drawing from one of the many artists who set up shop along the Seine, claim our bags from Brigitte and hop on the RER to catch our 4 PM flight home.

The forms that ate my brain

I have a confession to make: I'd rather visit the dentist than fill out a financial form.

This is because I don't feel like a brainless idiot when I visit the dentist. Just a chicken (which, by virtue of a brain the size of a pea, is higher up on the mental capacity scale than a brainless idiot). Of course, once my dentist cranks up the laughing gas, I usually begin to act like an idiot. But at that point, I don't care - in fact, I enjoy it (probably has something to do with growing up in the 60s).

On the other hand, facing a blank, complicated form makes me feel as though someone just stuck a vacuum cleaner hose in my ear and sucked out all my brains. One look at, say, a blank Federal Student Aid form and I can suddenly hear the ocean—in my head.

LIFE'S A BEAR

If this is an experience you can relate to, then you will definitely take pity on me when you hear that during the past few weeks, I had to fill out Federal Student Aid forms for one of my sons in college, a corporate college grant application form, multiple 1997 tax forms for Federal and State, and a mortgage loan application form. And when I wasn't filling them out, I was reading the directions, at which point I usually regressed to thumb-sucking and whining for my Mommy.

Not only are the directions even more confusing than the forms, but the forms have these terrifying warnings on them:

WARNING: You must fill out this form accurately...blah, blah, blah...If you purposely give false or misleading information, you may be fined $10,000, sent to prison or both.

They don't even have a "Comments" section, where you can add disclaimers like, "If any of the information on here is wrong, don't blame me - I am a brainless idiot."

To make things even more complicated, it's not just a matter of figuring out the correct numbers and writing them in (which is hard enough if you've ever seen my filing system). You also have to think about the actual purpose behind the form.

For instance, on your tax forms, you want to look as poor as you can without fibbing. Because the purpose of a tax form is to give the government your money, and you want to give them as little as possible.

Conversely, the intent of a mortgage loan application form is for you to get as much money as possible from a bank or other financial institution. And so appearing to be poor is not a good thing, because as we know, banks do not want to lend money to you if you actually need it.

So, there I was, alternating between trying to make myself look rich on the mortgage forms and poor on the tax forms. I was starting to feel like the brothers in that old TV series, "Rich Man, Poor Man", played by Richard Strauss and Nick Nolte. I'm rich. I'm poor. I'm poor. I'm rich. I even began having nightmares, which made my husband nervous because I kept mumbling in my sleep: "Dick. Nick. Nick. Dick."

It got so bad I was considering making an appointment for a root canal, just to take my mind off all of those blank lines and numbers.

Finally, I knew I had to do something. So I asked myself - were these forms worth losing my mind over?

Absolutely not. Which is why I gave them to my husband.

"Here, honey," I said. "You should be doing these forms. Men are so much better at numbers!"

Now he's stuck filling them out and mumbling in his sleep.

Hmmm. Maybe I'm not such an idiot, after all.

Questions or comments for humorist Donna Abear can be sent to Lakeland Newspapers, 30 S. Whitney St., Grayslake, IL 60030.

CRITIC'S CHOICE

Weak plot sinks 'Numbers Don't Lie'

Kevin Will and Sarah Hartmann in a scene from "Numbers Don't Lie...and other lies."

"Numbers Don't Lie...and other lies" is probably the cleverest thing about this sophomoric new musical comedy by Dino Biris and George Seegerbrecht.

Making its world premier at Chicago's Ivanhoe Theater, "Numbers" sets out to present a comic look at the corporate world, whose denizens are big on black-mail, office politics, subterfuge and, of course greed. This was done much better in "Other Peoples' Money" and, before that, "How to Succeed in Business."

The set relies on minimal props, and the cast itself could stand some shoring up in the vocal department.

"Numbers" can't seem to make up its mind what it is: one minute it's a farce, then the lyrics turn dead serious. All this does is throw off the pacing; it doesn't add up. Where's the continuity? Send in the auditors.

Directed by Terry McCabe, this play is scheduled to run through March 8. Ticket information is available at (773) 975-7171.

'Henry V' stirs with modern ring

If William Shakespeare's "Henry V" carries a message, it's about the timelessness of the horror of war.

This play retells the lopsided victory by the British against the French in 1415 at the battle of Agincourt, but its underlying tone and flavor about misery and suffering in 1990s contemporary. As staged at Chicago's Ruth Page Theater by the Shakespeare Repertory, the eternal truths it explores are highlighted through a blending of multimedia effects, ending in a powerful series of visual blowups of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial. Several slides zoom in on the names of the dead.

In an unusual touch, a small jazz ensemble is used to add to the cadence of the drama. The haunting, lyrical voice of bluesman James Williams, sings words set to the music of composer Alaric Jans—words of the futility and senselessness of war.

Stunningly directed by Barbara Gaines, "Henry V" features Stephen Kunken, a dashing leader in the title role as the recent inheritor of the British crown who sets out to make a name for himself by taking on France.

More than anything, the play focuses on the young monarch's bloody campaign, a battle royale. King Henry's loyalists go head-to-head against the French. Many of the performers are pressed into multiple roles. Strong performances come from Robert Scogin (as the rascally Pistol) and his mates, Guy Barile and Richard Wharton. Meanwhile, Patrick Clear, Dan Zakarija, Thomas Vincent Kelly and Neil Friedman are delightful as the eager fighting soldiers from Scotland and Wales.

See "Henry V" through March 15. After that, "The Comedy of Errors" will wind up the season, starting April 10. Ticket information is available at (312) 642-2273.—By Tom Witom Stephen Kunken is featured in "Henry V," presented by the Shakespeare Repertory Theater.

MOVIE REVIEW

Sultry sex, dirty delights in 'Palmetto'

Woody Harrelson is pathetic, depressing and just a little funny in his newest flick, "Palmetto," the story of two female vixens tempting an ex-con with a big chip on his shoulder into the dirty deed of aiding in a kidnapping and worse.

The usually wholesome Elisabeth Shue slithers, wriggles and sexually gazes and grins Harrelson into joining in the kidnapping of her dying millionaire husband. She gets a lot of help from her sultry step-daughter played by Chloe Sevigny, who seems to delight in using her tempting ways to debase every man in sight.

The hungry Harrelson is the perfect dupe since he's filled with resentment after doing time on a bum rap.

He reaps a different kind of chuckle here than he did in "Cheers," drawn on his sheer lack of good sense, coupled with his raging resentment, not to mention his raging hormones, and his need for the fast buck.

Director Volker Schlöndorff guides his cast through the many twists and turns in this sneaky plot chock full of corpses and inequities like Harrelson's girlfriend, played by Gina Gershon, being shocked at his playing around with Shue and Sevigny, yet taking a body in the trunk of his car in stride.

In fact the storyline travels a fine line of disparagement in daring to make all the characters involved so crazy and seamy that there is the danger of destroying the audience's relationship with them so they might not care how the whole thing turns out.

Some might think there is one dizzy twist too many in this steamy thriller that you have to be in the right dusky mood to appreciate, or you just might hate it.

We were in that mood, so we are giving the "R" rated "Palmetto" three out of a possible five stars because it's sheer stupidity made us laugh here and there amid all that depression.—By Gloria Davis

Elisabeth Shue and Woody Harrelson star in "Palmetto," a grim thriller with lots of twists, turns and a few laughs.

It's time to start seeds indoors

Judging by the weather, it looks like spring is right around the corner. Actually, it will be some time before we can get outside and turn the garden over, or do any real planting. Now is the time to start seeds indoors, if you like to grow varieties that are not easily available at the local nursery. I hope by now you have ordered your seeds from the catalogue companies, but if not, you do still have some time. One big advantage to starting seeds indoors is you can grow unique varieties at quite a savings in price.

You can start an entire perennial flower bed for a fraction of what it would cost to buy potted plants. If they do not thrive in your garden, well you are really not out of lot of bucks. It pays to be frugal. If you do not want to order by mail, many of the local nurseries carry quite a variety of seeds, go check them out.

O.K. now that you have decided to give seed starting a shot—here's how. There are many types of seed starting kits available commercially, such as jiffy peat pellets, peat pots, and ferti-cubes. The Jiffy Peat Pellets are handy peat pots and potting soil all in one. All you need to add is water, and within minutes they expand three to five times. Once expanded, place your seed in the small hole in the top. Many of the top seed producers now use the Ferti-cubes. Each cube is a blend of mosses, organic food and vermiculite. Cubes stay moist, germinate rapidly and develop vigorous, healthy roots. Included with them are plastic flats with detailed instructions. If you do not want to purchase any of the above, you can mix your own potting medium. Use equal amounts of peat moss, vermiculite and perlite. Recycled plastic six packs that your seedlings were planted in, work quite well. I have used Styrofoam egg crates with much success.

Most tomatoes and peppers should be started eight to ten weeks before the predicted frost date, which is May 31. I usually start them no later than the first week of March. Peppers and tomatoes need bottom heat to germinate. Setting them by a heat source, the hot water heater, furnace, or heating vents work real well. Flower seeds may need heat or some just need light and cool temps to germinate, follow the instructions on the seed packets or in the various catalogues. If you are unsure your local extension service will be of help. You can also call Chicago Botanical Gardens, they are always willing to answer inquiries.

It is of utmost importance to not bury the seeds too deeply, I use a toothpick and gently push them down into the medium. Then, when they need water until they get strong, I water them with a spray bottle, (because a stream of water could damage the teeny seedling.) It is also very important to never let the soil dry out, the seed will not have a chance of germinating if that occurs.

It helps the seeds to germinate, if they are covered with saran wrap or plastic bags until the seeds emerge, this helps create a humid environment, which facilitates germination.

If you have never started seeds inside before, give it a shot. Children love to tend to the seedlings, and to watch them grow. It is witnessing a wonder—the plant that emerges from that tiny seed.

BILLIARD: Women take on the game of pool good when you're out competing." Steiskal plays on the Toon Town team. "It's the same five girls each week, working and learning from each other."

The sport is affordable by most people's standards. Just $5 per night on average. The league has a rules committee comprised of 13 players who make such decisions as whether or not men can substitute on a woman's team.

"Right now, women cannot substitute on a men's team," Hermes said. "But, that is a rule I want to see changed back. I use to sub for the guys and I am as good as them. I'm working on that one," she chuckled.

Taylor, who lead the league last spring, says the night is a "stress reliever." "I look forward to this every week," she said. She got started in the league as a sub and worked her way onto a team.

"Gathering a team is something that goes on season by season," she said. "Many of the girls on our team have been on different teams and over the years we played each other and got together to form our own team."

Konstans has been playing in the leagues off and on for more than 20 years.

"It's a great night out," she said. "We accept every one in the league."

For Limerick Lounge owner Al Anderson the pool leagues are fun and a source of business.

"These women have been great," he said. "The leagues really bring in business and its a lot of fun, you get to know the players on your teams." Anderson has the team plaques appropriately hung on the wall next to the pool table. He also sponsors a couple of men's teams.

For more information on joining a team call Steiskal, at 838-1408.

mentary gourmet desserts and complete espresso bar will also be offered.

The auction is conducted by the Regency Fine Art, which displays a superb collection of certified and framed art representing a wide

Entries open in dog judging contest

Entries are now being accepted for the Junior Dog Judging Contest, an exclusive feature of the International Kennel Club of Chicago's 60th Anniversary Show on Sunday, March 29 at McCormick Place East, 2301 S. Lake Shore Dr., Chicago.

The contest is open to boys and girls from 9 to 19 years of age. Entrants will be asked to place three to five breeds based upon how they conform to the breed standards recognized by the American Kennel Club.

The C. Groverman Ellis Sterling Silver Championship Trophy will be engraved with the name of the highest ranking individual in judging all classes. Silver-plated trophies will be presented to first through tenth place finishers.

A copy of the Rules and Regulations, as well as an entry card, may be obtained upon request from the IKC, 6222 W. North Ave., Chicago, 60639, (773) 237-5100. Entries should reach IKC offices no later than Friday, March 13.

HOROSCOPE

Aries - March 21/April 20

Your forceful manner rubs people the wrong way this week, Aries. Try not to be too aggressive, especially when meeting someone for the first time. A family matter gets a little out of hand, and your input is needed. Try to keep everyone calm. Sagittarius plays a key role late in the week.

Taurus - April 21/May 21

You're unusually talkative when it comes to financial matters early in the week. A windfall puts you in a generous mood. Remember to think of those who are always there for you. An old acquaintance shows up on your doorstep. Don't turn him or her away until you hear what he or she has to say.

Gemini - May 22/June 21

You're going to need a lot of willpower when it comes to business, Gemini. While you know the answer to a problem, superiors are brainstorming for a solution. Don't be impatient; just present your case logically. They will see that you are right. That special someone finally says yes. Don't be stunned — just enjoy yourself.

Cancer - June 22/July 22

A close friend has a problem early in the week and needs your help. Don't let the situation get you down. Just try to help as much as you can. Turn to loved ones if you don't know what to do. Their advice always has been good. Keep your chin up. Capricorn and Pisces play important roles on Thursday.

Leo - July 23/August 23

A business associate goes behind your back to get a project. Don't be too angry. Try to understand why he or she did it — and think about how little you really wanted the project anyway. A close friend introduces you to an interesting person. Be yourself, and you're sure to make a good impression.

Virgo - Aug 24/Sept 22

Be selective this week, Virgo. You've got a lot of decisions to make, and you should be sure that you're doing the right thing. Don't let others' opinions sway you from doing what you want. A loved one invites you to dinner. Don't make up excuses. Besides, you're sure to have a good time.

Libra - Sept 23/Oct 23

A family conflict has you on edge this week. You're not sure what to say to any of your close relatives because you don't want to make things worse. Talk to those involved, and help them understand the situation. It will take a lot of patience on your part, but things will work out. The person you've been seeing has a surprise for you. Enjoy!

Scorpio - Oct 24/Nov 22

You're not really happy with yourself this week, Scorpio. You're doing a lot of things to get ahead, but you're not thinking of the consequences. Take a step back, and look at the big picture. Get your priorities straight. It's not too late to help others, as well as yourself. Taurus plays a key role.

Sagittarius - Nov 23/Dec 21

Rumors are flying early in the week. Before you get nervous, find out what's true and what's not. After you know the facts, you can make your own decisions. You run into an old flame late in the week. Spend some time with him or her, and catch up with each other. It will be worth it.

Capricorn - Dec 22/Jan 20

Keep your shoulder to the wheel this week, Capricorn. You've got a lot to do. However, a lot of people also want your help. Set your priorities, and do what you can for others — without falling behind yourself. A close friend tells you some interesting news. Don't overreact. Leo plays an important role early in the week.

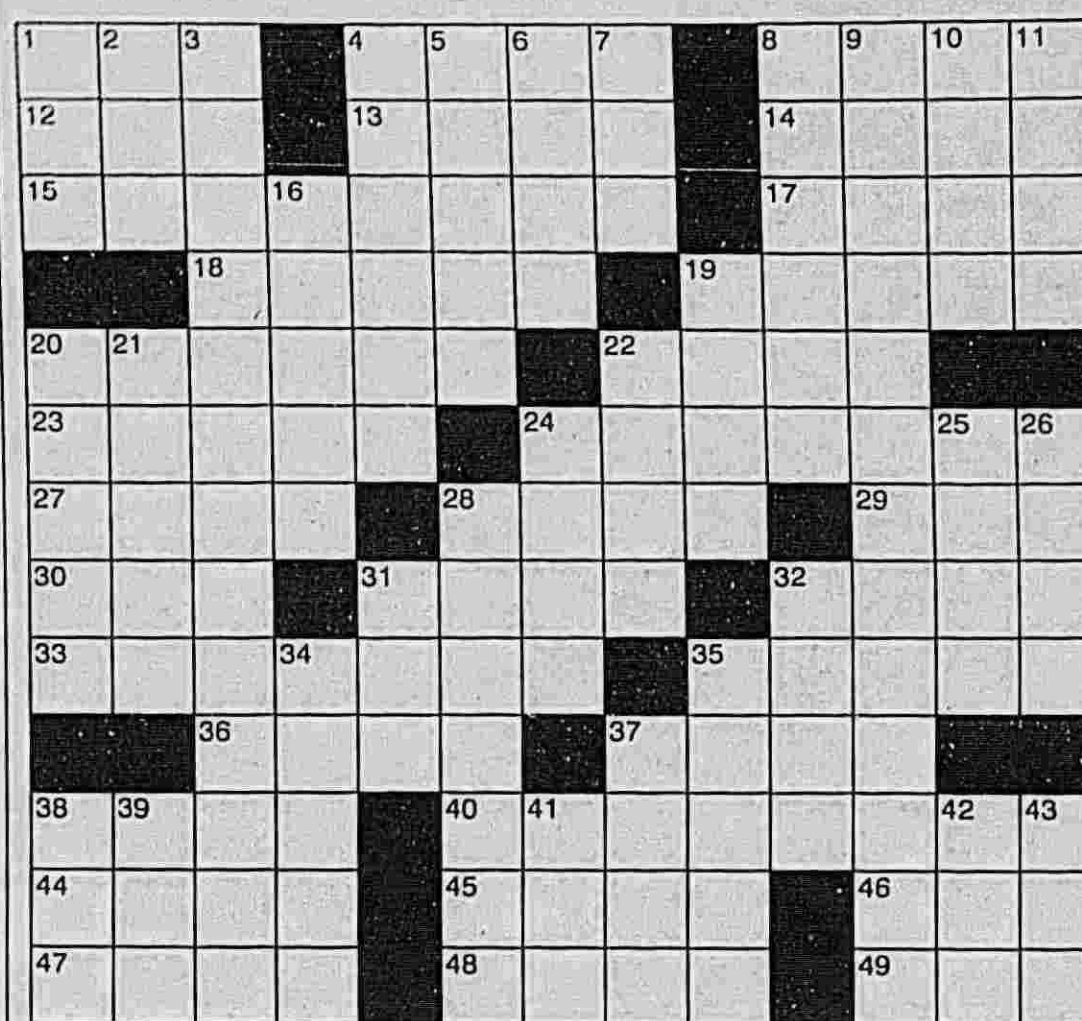

Aquarius - Jan 21/Feb 18

If there's one thing that you need to do this week, it's to be practical. You've got a full agenda and high hopes, but can you really get it all done? Turn to your loved ones for help. They're always there for you. Do something romantic for that special someone to show him or her how much you care.

Pisces - Feb 19/March 20

While you have good intentions, a surprise you've planned for a friend backfires and puts your relationship on shaky ground. Don't get upset. Just explain yourself, and try to work things out. It will take some time, but things will get back to normal.

Kickin' butts: Kids to say no to tobacco April 2

Thousands of kids are launching plans for the third annual Kick Butts Day, a nationwide event that puts young people on the front lines of the tobacco wars. Aimed at curbing growing tobacco use among kids and exposing harmful youth-targeted marketing, Kick Butts Day mobilizes America's kids as tobacco control leaders and activists.

With comprehensive national tobacco control legislation on Congress' 1998 agenda, and states across the country enacting tough tobacco laws, Kick Butts Day 1998 takes on new significance. This year's event, scheduled for April 2, is expected to be the largest ever.

Kids will speak out against tobacco as youth smoking rates skyrocket. Nearly 37 percent of America's high school seniors now smoke, an alarming 19-year high. Each day, 3,000 kids—more than one million a year—become regular smokers; 1,000 of them will die prematurely from tobacco-related diseases. More dedicated than ever to exposing tobacco industry tactics that foster this deadly trend, youth in all 50 states will charge into battle on Kick Butts Day, spearheading an innovative range of school and community activities designed to fight back against the industry that preys on them. Kick Butts Day 1998 will feature, among many other activities:

- Undercover Buying Operations—trained students, under adult supervision, testing whether local store owners permit illegal tobacco sales;

- Lobbying—students initiating and/or supporting enactment of local and state anti-tobacco ordinances and legislation;

- Operation Storefront—students surveying tobacco advertising in local stores;

- Merchandise Dumps—students collecting products bearing tobacco brand names, then tossing of the magazine.

In New Hampshire, 150 students analyzed tobacco ads, then set up a huge display in the school cafeteria, alerting students to tobacco companies' marketing tactics.

In Iowa, a student marching band sported anti-tobacco uniforms to "drum out tobacco." Students there also signed a petition calling for state-funded anti-tobacco public service announcements.

'Kids listen to other kids. When their friends tell them that cigarette ads are trying to manipulate them into believing that smoking is cool and glamorous, it's often a big turn off, bigger than adults saying 'don't smoke''

Bill Novelli, president
Campaign for Tobacco-Free Kids

them into dumpsters or hazardous materials containers; and

- Youth Rallies—anti-tobacco youth activists uniting with parents, teachers, community and government leaders at schools, shopping malls and state capitols.

Last year, thousands of young advocates, in hundreds of cities and towns across the country, stood up and spoke out against tobacco. In Virginia, teens tracked down magazines that accepted tobacco ads, then sent back subscription cards with a twist: each card carried a pro-health message—postage courtesy California high schoolers supported a petition, too. Citing the influence of celebrities as teen role models, their petition urged actress Winona Ryder to quit smoking, at least in her screen roles.

New York teens bought a coffin—and buried tobacco merchandise inside.

"Kids listen to other kids. When their friends tell them that cigarette ads are trying to manipulate them into believing that smoking is cool and glamorous, it's often a big turn off, bigger than adults saying 'don't smoke'," said Bill Novelli, president

Smoking and kids

- Each day, 3,000 kids become regular smokers. That's more than one million kids a year. One-third of them will eventually die from a tobacco-related disease.

- Almost 90 percent of adult smokers began at or before age 18.

- 86 percent of children who smoke prefer Marlboro, Camel, and Newport—the three most heavily advertised brands.

- A study published in the Journal of the National Cancer Institute found that teens are more likely to be influenced to smoke by cigarette advertising than they are by peer pressure.

- Cigarettes kill more than 400,000 Americans every year. This figure represents more deaths than from AIDS, alcohol, car accidents, murders, suicides, drugs and fires—combined.

- The cigarette companies spent almost $5 billion in 1994 on advertising and promotion campaigns—that's $13 million every day.

- The Centers for Disease Control report smoking rates for students in grades 9-12 increased from 27.5 percent in 1991 to 34.8 percent in 1995. The same study shows smoking rates for African-American male students almost doubled during that time, from 14.1 percent to 27.8 percent.

Baby name traditions still popular, city names on the rise

While the number of babies born annually at Good Shepherd Hospital continues to remain high, the popularity of baby names remains traditional, with a few unusual exceptions, including names of cities.

A listing of the names of babies born at Good Shepherd in 1997, reveals that parents in the Good Shepherd Hospital service area, which spans Cook, Lake, and McHenry Counties, chose the traditional names Jacob, Nicholas, Michael, Matthew, Zachary and Andrew most often to name their sons. Among the most popular and traditional names for girls are Emily, Hannah, Rachel and Sarah.

Names on the rise for boys include Daniel, Ryan, Thomas and Tyler; and names on the rise for girls include Ashley, Danielle, Elizabeth and Jessica.

The 1997 list of baby names also revealed a new trend—babies named after cities. The parents of 29 babies chose Alexandria, Austin, Cary, Camden, Cheyenne, Dallas, Eugene, Lincoln, Madison, Orlando, Reno, Raleigh, Trenton, or Sydney to name their children.

Parents of boys opting for unique names chose Alister, Braden, Cayman, Dalton, Gage, Hunter, Logan, Tanner, Tyrus, Vasilis, and Vilkas.

Parents of girls opting for the unusual chose Anika, Aveed, Daria, Demetra, Destiny, Galen, Grayson, Kiah, Mackenzie, Nimarta, Rhaven, Scarlet, Sierra, Sonali and Zoe.

Names of famous people or celebrities that are popular include Angelica, Audrey, Carley, Daryl, Farrah, Janet, Marissa, Payton, Pia, Tatum, Cameron, Christian, Fidel, Liam, Macguire, Parker and Wesley.

The names with the most variations for boys are Johnathan and Nicholas and Kathryn and Ann for girls.

Good Shepherd Birth Center statistics for 1997 include 2,023 deliveries.

Good Shepherd Hospital is a state designated Level II Birth Center with Extended Capability, which means the hospital can provide 24-hour, immediate and continuous, intensive care for critically ill newborns with special needs resulting in fewer newborn transfers and better family bonding. The hospital's newly expanded special care baby nursery includes 22 normal newborn beds and eight special care newborn beds, and has the flexibility to accommodate more babies, if necessary.

Are learning disabilities the same as processing problems?

Dear Dr. Singer, I have been an avid reader of your column for a long time and have seen you write about something called "processing problems" that children have. I'm wondering if these are the same as learning disabilities?

I also wonder if you can go into more detail than you have before about what exactly a problem like this looks like. I'm wondering if my child might be dealing with this. He has never liked school much and seems to have trouble with just about everything. We've tried tutors and have also had him tested, but our only answer so far is that he has "learning disabilities."

If you could further clarify what you look into in this program I'd be much obliged! Much appreciate the words of wisdom! I always love when people sign in words so...Intrigued in Ivanhoe.

Dear Intrigued,

Yes, I have received a lot of questions about a program I run that is called, Pace. Pace stands for Processing and Cognitive Enhancement. The bottom line is that it is a thinking program. It helps kids to think faster and better and use what they think about more effectively.

In answer to your question, in my view, processing problems are not the same thing as a learning disability. Technically, a learning disability is diagnosed when ability scores and achievement scores are discrepant enough (scores are far apart enough) to meet some sort of criteria (i.e. school criteria, federal criteria.)

PARENT'S PLACE

Sherri Singer, Psy.D.

Ability scores are generally cognitive scores and one could glean information about a child's processing through that. Unfortunately, knowing what the scores are doesn't do much to change them.

Generally, when a learning disability is diagnosed, the treatment takes the form of intensive tutoring of academic subjects such as Reading, Math, Spelling, etc.

What I do with PACE is very different than this. I look for processing problems that can exist beneath the academic problems and cause the academic problems to never get any better. Things like: memory (long and short term); How a child perceives and interprets the things he or she sees and/or hears; How fast the child can absorb and learn something; How well the child can handle several things at the same time. In addition to helping to greatly improve memory, auditory and visual processing and processing speed, PACE also helps kids to do something called multi-tasking. This involves helping kids develop the ability to do and think about two, three or four things at the same time and handle all of them successfully. This is a skill that is indispensable for the classroom. After all, a child in a classroom has to listen, read, and possibly write at the same time and be able to keep track of all of it.

In general, without excellent processing skills like good memory, fast processing speed, good multi-tasking, good auditory and visual processing skills, academics such as Reading, Spelling and Math cannot possibly be adequate. If a child has a weak memory, how is that child going to comprehend what he reads for later use? If a child has slow processing speed, how is that child going to pick things up when he sees them in class and hold onto them while he is receiving new information 5 minutes later? If a child has an auditory processing problem, how is that child going to pick up sounds well enough to sound out words later?

Processing problems can develop through lots of ways. I'm going to illustrate an extreme situation here so you can begin to understand some of it. If someone is blind, their hearing skills are going to be great because they have learned to absorb and interact with the world through their ears. If someone is deaf, their vision will be great because this is how they learned to interact with and absorb the world.

In a lesser way, auditory and visual processing problems can be similar. For example, many children suffer from allergy problems and ear problems when very young. If there is blockage of any kind, during the stage when they are picking up sounds, they learn to depend more on their vision. This then becomes the stronger sensory mode. It would be the same thing if you broke your ankle and had to favor your other foot for a very long time. You would learn to become overly dependent on that other foot. It probably wouldn't be the best way to continue to function, however, it would certainly feel the right way because you were used to it.

Until research that helped develop Pace was available, the normal route of treatment for a weak sensory mode would be to try and present information to the stronger of the two sensory modes and whatever was missed would be allowed extra time or space.

We all know the adult world doesn't allow much extra time or space. There is another option now. Pace philosophy is to build up the weaker sense and make it equally as strong as the other one so that the learning system is balanced and complete.

Pace is built on a great deal of research and a pilot study that suggests that intelligence and cognitive abilities can be improved. There are a great many people out there who don't believe that and argue it vehemently. I firmly believe in the potential improving of these capabilities and would ask anyone who doesn't believe in it, why anyone would need to go to school at all if we were unable to increase our capabilities? If this were true, school would be a waste of time for anyone. We all know that isn't the case.

Pace has been affectionately referred to as "Mental Boot Camp" or "Brain Aerobics." Kids tend to love it because it is very goal oriented and they learn that through hard work they can meet their goals. It doesn't deal with tutoring or any academic subjects. Rather, it helps to repair the entire learning system so that tutoring and other academic learning and training is absorbed in a more effective way and can become permanent.

I hope I have answered some of your questions. To tell you quite honestly, there is a ton of information about Pace and space constraints prevent me from filling in more here. I write about it in the paper every so often, because I have had so many calls and letters about it that I want to make sure I am at least giving people a general idea. If you want more information about Pace, call me at the numbers below and I can arrange to send you the full information about the program. I would also love to screen your child and see if he is appropriate for the program. If you're interested, we can talk about what that involves. Good luck!

Thanks to all my writers and callers!! Keep on writing and calling!

Teaching Kids Useful Skills to Solve Everyday Problems

PSTMC Child & Adolescent Intensive Outpatient Program Staff

It's easy to overlook the fact that many of the problems which children and adolescents experience may be due to a lack of basic skills in handling conflicts, controlling impulsivity and expressing thoughts and feelings through words instead of action. This presentation will review ways in which kids can be helped to develop their own problem-solving abilities and gain mastery over the difficulties they face in everyday living.

MS Walk set for April 19

Eleven area routes planned

A total of 10,000 walkers, one for each person affected by MS in the 73-county-wide area served by the Chicago-Greater Illinois Chapter, National Multiple Sclerosis Society, is sought for the 1998 MS WALK presented by Mercedes-Benz on Sunday, April 19 in 11 communities.

The Chicago-Greater Illinois Chapter has a goal of $1.5 million in proceeds for the benefit of multiple sclerosis research and programs offered to people with MS and their families. Nationwide, some 220,000 walkers are expected to take part in 650 walks in the National MS Society's only simultaneous national fund-raising event and awareness-building weekend.

Walkers in the Chicago-Greater Illinois Chapter's event will seek pledges from sponsors in support of their effort as they follow routes that vary from 7 to 11 miles. Participants may walk on their own or as part of teams composed of families, friends or coworkers. Check-in time for all WALKS is between 8 and 9:30 a.m., with the official kickoff ceremonies at each route planned for 9 a.m.

The 7-mile long Chicago Lakefront WALK begins at Randolph Street and the lake. Multiple sclerosis is a chronic, often disabling disease that attacks a person's central nervous system. The progress, severity and number of symptoms vary from one person to another and may include slurred speech, double vision, unusual fatigue or paralysis. The disease is most often diagnosed in persons between 20 and 40 with some 200 new cases determined nationwide each week.

The National Multiple Sclerosis Society, founded in 1946, is the only national voluntary health organization in the United States devoted solely to supporting research on multiple sclerosis as well as supplying services to people with MS and their families through its 50-state network of chapters.

All potential walkers planning to join the national organization in its mission of bringing an end to the devastating effects of multiple sclerosis may obtain registration forms, information about each route, suggestions for how to organize and promote participation as a team, pledge fulfillment tips and details of volunteer opportunities by calling the MS chapter at (312) 922-8000 or (1800) 922-0484.

Live independently with low vision

Too many eye patients have heard "Nothing more can be done" and statistics show that, in the future, even more will be hearing these words. When they were spoken to nurse Karen McCulloh, she reacted in a way that is common to those who develop blinding or nearblinding eye conditions.

"I wanted to die," recalls McCulloh. "I believed that my life as a productive and contributing person had ended. Not only was I facing my loss of vision, I was dealing with the absolute lack of hope implied by those words: Nothing more can be done."

Coming to terms with lost or diminished vision, for some individuals, can be like dealing with a death. The process that many visually impaired people go through is very much like grieving. The grief is lost even more traumatic when hope is lost along with vision.

Coming to terms with lost or diminished vision, for some individuals, can be like dealing with a death. The process that many visually impaired people go through is very much like grieving. The grief is made even more traumatic when hope is lost along with vision.

Ms. McCulloh and Prevent Blindness America believe that there is a key to better treatment for eye conditions: "I mean treatment in both senses of the word. Treatment of the disease and treatment of the person facing the disease. There have been marvelous advances in adaptive equipment that help to make the most of a person's remaining vision," says McCulloh.

Low vision training and aids help people like McCulloh by giving them back hope. Low vision training teaches people to cope with diminished vision using education, rehabilitation therapy and adaptive equipment to enhance mobility and help regain their former quality of life.

Much of the challenge of living as a person who is visually impaired is in learning new skills and relearning old ones, or, as McCulloh puts it, "learning to do old things in new ways." McCulloh confronted her mid-life vision loss by returning to college. She adapted her skills as a hospital nurse, becoming instead a private practice nurse, working to support those adjusting to vision loss.

"With knowledge comes power, power that is key to overcoming the fear that often accompanies a loss of vision," says McCulloh.

Ten steps to ensure your independence

1. Investigate There are national and local resources available that can help people who have low vision. Information and referrals can be provided by various agencies, organizations and institutions located throughout the U.S. These resources can help educate you on your eye condition, offer support services and provide rehabilitation services. Call Prevent Blindness America at 1-800-331-2020 and let us help get you started.

2. Advocate If you've been told "nothing more can be done with regular corrective eyeglasses," you may need to have a low vision specialist's evaluation. Vision rehabilitation specialists can prescribe magnifiers, telescopic aids, closed-circuit televisions and other adaptive equipment that can enhance your existing vision. Ask your eye doctor for a referral to a vision rehabilitation specialist.

3. Support If you are having difficulty adjusting to your vision loss or want to network with other people who are overcoming vision problems, a support group can be an invaluable resource. Support groups can assist people with vision loss by providing the opportunity to find out how others are coping. They can help you learn how to do old things in new ways, receive information on resources and find support in a variety of other ways. If there is no support group available in your community, call Prevent Blindness America at 1-800-331-2020.

4. Communicate Write down questions for your eye doctor before your next visit. Speak frankly with your eye doctor about your questions and concerns. Tell the doctor if you do not understand. Repeat if necessary. Ask a family member or close friend to go with you into the examining room. It helps to be able to confirm information with a family member. Including family members initially helps them get involved and enhances their understanding of your eye condition and future concerns. Family members may surprise you with their creative solutions.

5. Anticipate If your eye doctor has told you that further vision loss is possible, get prepared. Living with low vision may be viewed either as an obstacle to your independence or more positively, as a challenge. You will need to consider developing new skills in your activities of daily life. Learn as much as you can about resources and rehabilitation services that are available. Learning as much as you can before vision is lost can make your adjustment easier.

6. Assert yourself! Don't take "no" for an answer! Many people who have low vision did not know that help is available. Ask your eye doctor for information and referrals. Remember you are on a mission to maintain your independence.

7. Educate Learn everything you can about your eye condition. The more you understand, the less fear you may experience. Educating yourself helps you confront concerns and speak intelligently with your eye doctor and others. Knowledge gives you control.

8. Determination Know that many people who have experienced vision loss at first feel anger, grief and depression. Losing even part of your vision can be devastating. Remain determined and persistent. You can make the most of your remaining vision.

9. Motivate Empower yourself with the knowledge that much of what has to be done must be done by you! Take control.

10. Hope/Research There are many exciting advances that have been made possible through medical research. This may put an end to many eye conditions and diseases in the future. Support research with your vote. Write to Congressional representatives and stay involved.

Santa Claus gets hitched

Jingle bells

If you listen to the radio in December, you may hear a song called "I saw Mommy Kissing Santa Claus" played time and time again.

The song was written by Thomas Connor in 1952 as more of a fantasy. Little did he know more than 40 years later his song would come true, as Santa Claus (formerly Robert Rion) of Mundelein, got married this week to Janet Olson of Round Lake.

The ceremony was held at 8:30 a.m. Feb. 24 at the Lake County Building in Waukegan, and was witnessed by her daughter from a previous marriage, Laron McIntosh, 13, who witnessed her mother kissing Santa Claus after they were pronounced man and wife by Minister Nathaniel Davis of Second Baptist Church of Kenosha, Wis.

"I am really happy about it," said Laron, an eighth grader at Wauconda Middle School. "I think it is really cool, neat."

Santa and Janet Claus (she is taking his last name) met through a mutual friend eight years ago following her divorce. She asked him to introduce her to his nicest friend, who turned out to be Rion.

"That is how we got introduced," Santa Claus said. A year had gone by before he proposed to her, but seven years passed before they actually got married.

"We have been seeing one another on-and-off for eight years since April 1, 1990," he said. "We got a marriage license seven years ago and we did not go through with it."

Janet Claus has worked as a cashier at Jewel Food Store in Antioch the past four years. None of her co-workers knew she was getting married to Rion, who on Dec. 1, 1997 legally changed his name to Santa Claus, starting a world-wide media frenzy.

"My bowling league knows," she said. She introduced Claus to her teammates at Wauconda Bowl a few days before the wedding.

At the wedding, Santa Claus wore a traditional (for him) red button-down shirt and red slacks, with black shoes and suspenders. Janet Claus wore a white-knit shirt and khaki pants.

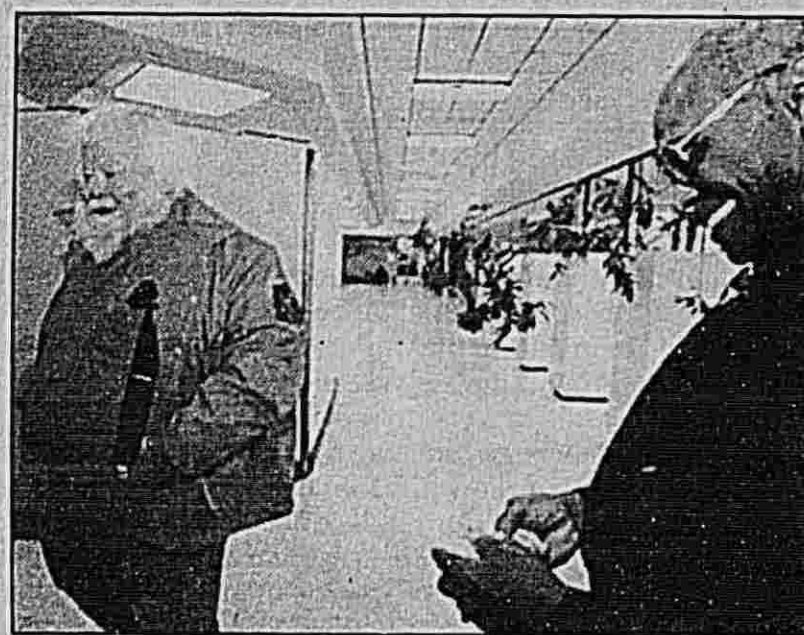

This is the second marriage for both.

After the wedding ceremony was completed, Janet Claus took her daughter to Fremont School, where she will finish the eighth grade, and started moving their things over to Santa Claus' house in Mundelein. Santa Claus went back to work at PD Grading Corp., the excavating company he owns.

They then all went out for lunch, and made plans for a three-day honeymoon in Galena this weekend.

It is likely he will be recognized there, as he recently was, while vacationing in Mexico south of Acapulco. A woman sitting across the room in a restaurant saw Santa Claus, wearing his red outfit and white hair and beard. She said, "Are you the Mundelein Santa Claus?" Claus recalled.—by Spencer Schein

Smith criticizes lack of CPR training

STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

The need to increase Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) knowledge among the law enforcement community is receiving attention from various candidates in nearing primary elections.

Lake County Sheriff candidate Willie Ray Smith is one candidate who backs more CPR voluntarily instruction for staff.

"If they do not use their training on-the-job, they can use it to help their families," Smith said.

He supports personnel taking a four-hour class and having their CPR cards renewed annually.

Secretary of State candidate Al Salvi, Republican, supports furthering education in CPR of State Police and deputies.

Smith's opponent, Sheriff Gary Del Re, is recovering from a heart attack.

Safe-A-Life Foundation, led by Carol Spizzirri, is pleased with the focus on increased CPR efforts. The group hopes the Sheriff well in his recovery.

"Although modern medicine has come a long way in counteracting heart disease, heart attacks are still the leading cause of death in this country. It is the responsibility of every American to recognize the signs of this killer with early heart attack care and equally necessary to learn how to maintain life in an emergency until help arrives with life supporting first aid training, including CPR. Additionally, these life saving skills must be required for those we entrust with our public safety, to provide prompt aid in a life threatening situation," Spizzirri said.

"It is common sense for the first people on the scene of an accident, when possible, to be trained in CPR and emergency medical procedures. Often, law enforcement officers are the first people to arrive. Countless lives will be saved with this measure,"

Salvi said.

Smith, making a campaign stop at a Sunday breakfast in Grandwood Park, spoke of the need to improve the radio systems to decrease the "dead spots" in the county.

He criticized those who planned the most recent addition to the Lake County Jail, saying it is 40 prisoners away from capacity.

Smith: Believes police should have more CPR training

"This time we should build so we have room to expand," Smith said.

Smith is a lifelong resident of Lake County who resides in Antioch.

He served as undersheriff from 1988-94 and was commanding officer of the Lake County Sheriff's Marine Unit for three years.

Del Re faring well after bypass

BY LEON FILAS
Staff Reporter

Lake County Sheriff Gary Del Re underwent quadruple bypass surgery Friday night at Evanston Hospital and is currently resting comfortably.

Del Re, who has been working 12 to 15 hours a day as he is running for re-election while still performing his duties as sheriff of Lake County, reported that he was having chest pains while at work on Friday.

This heart surgery for Del Re comes on the heels of an October heart attack. The bypass surgery is designed to clear blockages in arteries or veins to improve blood flow to the heart.

Del Re is expected to be released from the hospital on Wednesday or Thursday.

Del Re stresses, through a press release, that this surgery or the problems with his heart will in no way affect his bid at re-election for Lake County Sheriff.

"I renew my pledge that I will vigorously draw on my experience and utilize all means available to me to provide effective law enforcement in the service to and protection of the people of Lake County," Del Re said in a written statement.

"The sheriff is eager to return to the office at the earliest possible time," Undersheriff Gary Stryker stated in a statement to the press. Stryker is in charge of the sheriff's department while Del Re recovers. "The doctor has advised that Del Re should feel more energized than ever now that his normal blood flow has been re-established."

"The sheriff was also told that this could be a blessing in disguise, avoiding a more serious problem later," Stryker stated.

Del Re: Says surgery will not limit sheriff's duties

Rotarians briefed on UN reforms

KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Antioch Rotary International Club members received an updated explanation of efforts to reform the United Nations at their February luncheon at Hoff's Columbia Bay Restaurant.

Edward R. Widmer Jr. explained historical efforts to reform the world peace-keeping organization and concepts used to describe relationships between countries.

"The United Nations appears to be about to evolve again," Widmer said. He said that people in the United States need to understand the changes since they serve as a major force to assure success of the world organization. He is especially disturbed that so few people are aware of United Nations Secretary General Kofi Annan's call for a 'peoples assembly' in 2000 to discuss world order and universal peace.

Long associated with Rotary International, Widmer has been involved with international social and economic development in his professional life. He established a company that provides diplomatic security services for embassies and United Nations personnel.

"Some feel that the concept of reform is meant to limit the scope and actions of the United Nations while others see this call for reform as a means to increase its function and make it, in reality, a world government," Widmer said. He believes that reform of some type in the organization will occur during the next few decades. The push for reform is based on political changes that have occurred between nations during the past fifty years.

Widmer described one reform model as an attempt to structure the United Nations with three components: a World Parliament, a World Court, a World Executive with an international police force.

The domination of the Security Council by five allied powers after World War II is subject to reform, according to Widmer. This post world war alliance no longer reflects political and economic realities that exist in the world. Nation members have gone from 50 countries in 1945 to 175 today. "The United Nations as a whole is much more inclusive than it was in 1945," he said.

Article 7 of the United Nations Charter assigned a police function to the Security Council and established an International Military Command and International Police Force. Widmer said that the 'cold war' prevented these aspects of the charter from being implemented. United States government officials do not want to take steps to have an international peace-keeping force, according to Widmer. No one is ready for that, yet.

Currently, regional response forces, such as are now in Bosnia, are being used by the Security Council to manage conflicts. Widmer said, "It is felt that such regional rapid deployment forces can eventually become a world police force."

Widmer offered some personal observations that he believes would help reform the world peace organization. "It would seem that there should be a way to provide adequate financial resources to the United Nations to allow it to function without pressure from individual states," Widmer said there is need to reduce costs, insure good management, and create an easy-to-implement format for world taxation to finance the organization's activities.

Cost cutting could begin by conducting the organization's business in one language rather than the five now used. Widmer also said that a one cent tax on all international postage would be a suitable way to generate funds. "It would provide for the United Nations budget," he said. He also noted that for the United States to withhold its own contributions is counterproductive. "This situation diminishes the leadership of the United States in the United Nations at perhaps the most crucial turning point in its history."

Widmer suggested another reform about standards of conduct. He believes there should be minimum standards of conduct for member states.

Widmer said, "If nation-states do not uphold the United Nations Charter on Human Rights, have democratic elections, permit free access to news and information, and abide by World Court and United Nations decisions, then these rogue states should be expelled from the United Nations and treated under provisions of a worldwide boycott of trade and association until their own internal policies and practices are in keeping with the aims and objectives of the United Nations Charter."

Secretary General Annan has called for heads of state of member nations to gather in New York headquarters in 2000 to discuss world peace and the future of the United Nations. Annan also urged a 'peoples assembly' be convened to discuss world order and universal peace. Widmer said, "This is a striking call and summons to the world, and yet it has gone virtually unnoticed in our own media and in our public discourse."

Exchangites go bowling for dollars, donations

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

The day of March 22 will not be a good one to be a bowling pin at Lakehurst Bowl.

Dozens of Exchange Club members from Grayslake and Gurnee, bowling ball in hand, will be set for the kill all in the name of a fund-raising event for prevention of child abuse efforts.

Exchangites are circulating sponsor sheets and seeking lane supporters to drum up funds. The Lake County Foundation for the Prevention of Child Abuse will be the beneficiary.

"It is an opportunity to get out there and raise money for the CAP foundation," said Grayslake Exchange member Joyce Campbell.

Campbell raised $1,000 at last year's bowl-a-thon and would like to top that mark this year.

"I received a tremendous amount of support from other insurance agents. Only one person turned me down," said Campbell.

The foundation is a combined effort of Grayslake, Gurnee Breakfast, Exchange Club of Gurnee, Waukegan Exchange.

"There is always an awful lot of need but not enough money or volunteers," said Lou Molitor, district president.

He joined Exchange a decade ago through his work at Northpointe Achievement Center.

"The Lincolnland District is one of the strongest districts with 31 clubs and 1,100 members. Like any service organization, time is so precious," he said.

"I like activities with the kids. They are the future of America. We have always had youth of the month and year and we have added an ace award for someone who has become the best student they can be," said Molitor.

For more information on the bowl-a-thon call Campbell at 223-2133.

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

Split vote nets OK for car dealers

Gurnee—Two automobile dealerships are coming to Gurnee.

Fuhrman Dodge, to be known as Gurnee Dodge and Anthony Pontiac won approvals to use 11 of 20 acres at 7300 block of Grand Ave., Almond Plaza.

Gurnee trustee Tom Chamberlain voted against the planned unit development for the site and the dealerships. Trustee Robert Amaden voted against the planned unit development but for the dealerships.

The issue was a controversial one at the plan commission level, resulting in a 3-3 tie vote.

"I am concerned because of the lighting. I am worried how Grand Ave. will look like," Chamberlain said.

"The lighting agreement improves upon Rosen's agreement. Staff has been working with developers to improve the overall plan in regards to landscape and layout," Gurnee Mayor Richard Welton said.

Saul Rosen's dealerships, Honda and Lincoln-Mercury will open next week, it is anticipated, near Brookside near Grand Ave.

Long-time village clerk dies

Mundelein—The village mourned the death of Colleen Kasting, 62, who died of kidney failure the morning of Feb. 21.

Kasting had served as village clerk for 21 years, and was the involved in the founding of many well-known village and Lake County events, such as Carmel High School's Street Scenes and the Taste of Mundelein, which has evolved into Mundelein Munch.

The Flag at Mundelein Village Hall was lowered to half-staff, and the building was closed Feb. 25, allowing all employees to attend her funeral services at Santa Maria Del Popolo Church, where she had served as a eucharistic minister for seven years.

School renames athletic field

Wauconda—Ray Porten is well-known in this community, having served as supervisor of building's and grounds for Wauconda Unit District 118 schools since 1985, and being heavily involved in the Wauconda High School Boosters since 1971.

The 1954 WHS graduate, now 61, will have his name live on for generations to come, as the district re-christened its athletic field as Ray Porten Athletic Field during half-time of its final home boy's basketball game Feb. 21.

Now everyone who attends football or soccer games or graduations in June at the school will know his name.

Palombi Fun Fair offered

Lake Villa—"Jungle to Sea Adventure" is the theme of this year's District 41 Fun Fair at Peter J. Palombi School.

The fair will be held in the gymnasium and cafeteria on Saturday, March 14 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

"This is open to everybody in the community," said General Chair Susan Kearney. Adults may attend the bingo and silent auction areas. Children attend the games and many other activities available.

Kearney said, "We'll have face painting, a clown making balloon animals, two space walks, a tattoo parlor, food, music, and games." There is a charge to play the games, and children use tickets instead of money.

Three tickets cost $1 and 18 cost $5.

Adults who bring their children may play bingo with other adults or attend the silent auction while their children play at the Fun fair.

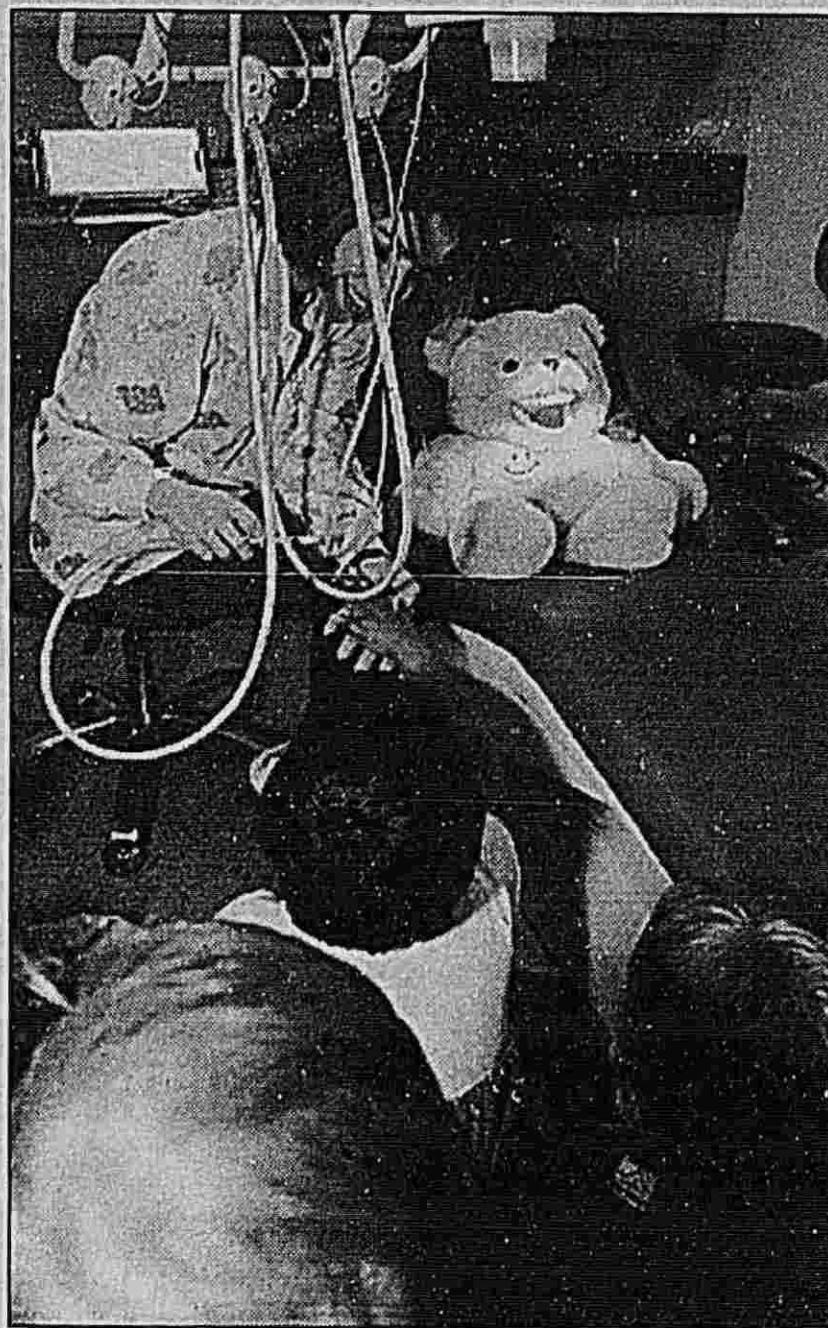

"Our donations this year, so far, are valued at about $6,000," Kearney said.

"Fun fair proceeds go back directly into school programs," said Kearney. The money helps to finance reading readiness programs and many different assemblies through the school year.

Antioch Sears seeks manager

Antioch—Sears wants to open a store in Antioch, but first they want to find a person to own and operate the store.

Sears Authorized Retail Dealer Stores offer exclusive Sears merchandise, brand name appliances, lawn and garden equipment, electronics, and tools.

"We really look for the person who has the best interests of customers at heart," said Sears Regional Development Director Dan Drilling. He is conducting the Antioch search for the right store owner.

Drilling is looking for a person who relates well to other people. The candidate also needs to be positively attracted to business and running a business. Outgoing, friendly people also have qualities that Drilling seeks.

He encourages interested people to call him for details at 800-366-2764/pin 300 1490.

Sears wants a dealership in Antioch because of "location and demographics. It's a growing community. It's bursting," he said. An Antioch Sears Authorized Retail Dealer Store would be one of 15 in Illinois according to Drilling.

Round Lake charged for damage

Round Lake—Marianne Amann has taken another step forward in her suit against Round Lake, claiming that the city is now responsible for fixing the damages they have done to her driveway prior to the case being heard by a court of law.

According to a letter from Amann's attorney, Joseph T. Morrison, the city and the owner of the property, Pritzker Corporation, the construction trucks from the subdivision "have created extremely large ruts and holes in the easement road, making it virtually impossible for regular cars to travel over the roadway."

Morrison and Amann are demanding repairs on this roadway regardless of the legal position the property is currently in.

"First the village called the health department on me because of my pigs," Amann stated. "Then, when the health department showed up to do a routine check, their vehicle got stuck in the driveway. Only 4 wheel drive auto's can make it down this thing."

Police chief gone after controversy

Grayslake—Grayslake Chief of Police Dennis Koletsos said his farewell Monday evening Feb. 23.

Grayslake appointed Richard D. Klatzco, as interim-chief, until a permanent replacement is hired for the position.

Koletsos notified the village in December that he wouldn't seek re-appointment to his position for the 1998-'99 fiscal year.

"I certainly have enjoyed working in the village and it's a very nice community. The officers have done an outstanding job," said Koletsos.

Since he turned in his resignation residents have clamored to retain the chief but the village has resisted the push saying it was his decision to leave.

Koletsos will remain on as a consultant for 90 days.

Klatzco is a retired chief of police from Northfield Police Department where he served 36 years. He most recently served as interim police chief for the Village of Oak Brook for one-and-a-half years.

Wadsworth likes extra patrol

Wadsworth—Wadsworth got tired of people speeding through town so the village contracted with the Lake County Sheriff's Department to put one patrol officer on the village streets for five hours per week for varying days and times.

Wadsworth President Don Craft said he's had people tell him they deliberately slow down now that they know someone is patrolling village streets.

Since that time residents of busy thoroughfares have seen a reduction in speeders.

Service by the extra officer began Jan. 12. According to Craft, in January 23 tickets were written.

Pease trying to build Sunset Ridge

Fox Lake—Jack Pease has been waging this campaign to build Sunset Ridge for nearly 10 years now. Five years ago, Pease ran into a woman named Kim Juback who stopped his attempts.

Juback, who was the vice president of the Coalition for the Rights of Pistakee Highlands, has currently moved her family to Wisconsin, remembers the fight she had with Pease, and cautions the people of the current Coalition to the way Pease is.

"When I lived in the area, Jack Pease was trying to build that development," Juback stated. "He didn't want to follow guidelines then and he won't now."

"I feel that if other builders aren't allowed to build there, neither should he."

Warfield trial set for June 8

Libertyville—A trial date of June 8 has been set in the misdemeanor battery trial of Andrew Warfield.

Warfield, 45, of Evanston, is accused of taking a 16-year-old Libertyville Community High School student off campus, writing a pass to get the student out of class, and kissing the student on the neck. He is also charged with contributing to the delinquency of a child.

Warfield entered a plea of not guilty on Tuesday, Feb. 11, where he waived his right to a jury trial, instead, requesting a bench trial. His attorney, Joshua Sachs, also filed a motion demanding a speedy trial.

Battle lines drawn over referendum

Libertyville—The Libertyville village board approved a resolution Tuesday night opposing the Cook Memorial Library District's plan for expansion and its upcoming referendum.

The resolution comes a week after the village of Vernon Hills passed a resolution endorsing the referendum.

The Cook Library board is seeking voter approval to a $19.9 million bond issue to build a second library in Vernon Hills, and renovate the existing downtown site. The plan would increase the property taxes by $94.75 for a homeowner with a $200,000 home.

The resolution approved by the village board on Tuesday criticized the library district for planning to build "a new main library at Lake Harvey in Vernon Hills and remodel the existing library building as a branch."

Fitzgerald's record bodes well for Senate

Due to her personal inadequacies and lackluster record, Illinois Republicans have been looking forward to retiring Democrat Carol Moseley-Braun, whose election to the U.S. Senate in 1992 can now be recorded as an accident of history despite the trailblazing aspects of her victory as the first black woman elected to the U.S. Senate.

Moseley-Braun has been an embarrassment to her own party and Illinois. She has not earned reelection. Now the question becomes, who is best suited to replace her? If she is as vulnerable as seen, the March 17 Republican primary could well become the time of decision for who will represent Illinois in the U.S. Senate along with incumbent Democrat Dick Durbin, who was elected in 1996.

The GOP has two attractive candidates vying for their party's nomination. State Comptroller Loleta Didrickson, who represented a south suburban district in the Illinois House and State Sen. Peter Fitzgerald of Palatine, who represents a north Cook County district in the Illinois Senate.

Overshadowing their records and issues is the novel question, at least in Illinois statewide elections, is who can afford the cost of getting elected? By her own admission, Didrickson has been pleading for funding support, a nagging problem from the start, which undoubtedly contributed to her indecision about getting into the race in the first place. Fitzgerald has personal and family wealth acquired from banking success to cover whatever the cost of winning the nomination.

In the campaign funds department, the balding legislator clearly has the edge over the blonde administrator. Money aside, Fitzgerald also has a comfortable edge in legislative achievement and adherence to the conservative based, lesser government philosophy in the tradition of President Ronald Reagan. Fitzgerald also is outspokenly conservative on social issues as well. Didrickson, who has positioned herself as a moderate since entering public life, has a traditional feminist stand on the always hot abortion question.

While election of either of the Republicans will be a beneficial step in our opinion, we are giving our endorsement to Fitzgerald on the basis of his fiscal conservatism and espousal of traditional family values. He would bring a strong voice and a sensible voting record if elected to the U.S. Senate.

Agency pioneers land reclamation

Nature's destructive forces will be challenged this summer in the Chain O' Lakes by the Fox Waterway Agency in a high tech program designed to restore Grass Island in Grass Lake, once an island of 21 acres that has shrunk to less than an acre through erosion.

Working in cooperation with the Illinois Dept. of Natural Resources, agency dredgers will pump silt into geotextile tubes formed in a crescent shape allowing "new land" to rise from the water. Fabric berms permit the liquid to seep back into the lake while containing solids.

The program affords an innovative path for deepening channels to aid navigation and water flow while creating new land mass. At this point, it isn't believed that the manufactured land will be solid enough to support human activity, but it readily can be seen that the recreated islands will be useful for wildlife and vegetation.

The Waterway Agency is pioneering use of the geotextile tubes for land reclamation, another example of how the non-tax supported agency provides a much needed service to improve water quality and safety on the Chain and Fox River, one of the busiest recreational bodies of water in the nation.

VIEWPOINT

Drivers feel better after getting pinched

Forty three persons, a cross section of Lake County demography, sat impassively in a spartan room in Building 3 at College of Lake County. The low-slung structure is part of the original CLC campus and now is given over to a criminal justice training program.

We were students in a class designed to improve the driving habits of motorists who had acquired a traffic ticket and agreed to schooling to keep their driving record clean. Most of the "students" had been "busted" (including your scribe) for exceeding a posted speed limit. Unsmiling transgressors of the law had their heels dug in for four hours of boring, unimaginative rehabilitation. One of our "assignments" was to admit to misgivings about what the class would be about.

Men and women alike (surprisingly no teenagers) had their worst fears confirmed with the playing of a hokey video about taking chances on the highway, including rolling the dice and turning poker cards.

Our listlessness was broken when a perky brunette strode into the classroom and introduced herself in a firm, confident voice. "I'm Lisa Daniels and I'll be your instructor. We'll be together for the next four hours. If you learn your lessons well, maybe we'll get out a little early. Now let's get going," she asserted, her wide, bright eyes sparkling

BILL SCHROEDER
Publisher

Handing out a workbook entitled, "Defensive Driving Course-4," Daniels took charge immediately. In only a few moments, Daniels had her class sitting up, paying attention, relating their own experiences with problem motorists and joining in lively discussions about highway safety and the Rules of the Road.

I never expected to get absorbed in the subject matter, but classmates began making notes in workbooks and volunteering answers. By their answers and their body language, students indicated that this was a worthwhile experience.

Without attending driver school, I wouldn't have picked up interesting—and useful—information like the value of a car phone for emergencies, keeping car doors locked at all times, driving with hands in the preferred 9 and 3 position to prevent self injury from an air bag detonation and how to deal with road rage.

The class learned that one out of 10 passing cars on a weekend night contains an intoxicated driver, that a first time DUI infraction is going to cost about $5,000 in Lake County, that local police are enforcing residential speed limits with gusto and that only one state, New Hampshire, doesn't have a seatbelt law. "If you know the New Hampshire state motto, you'll know why," advised Daniels. "Live free or die!" she related with a bit of dark humor.

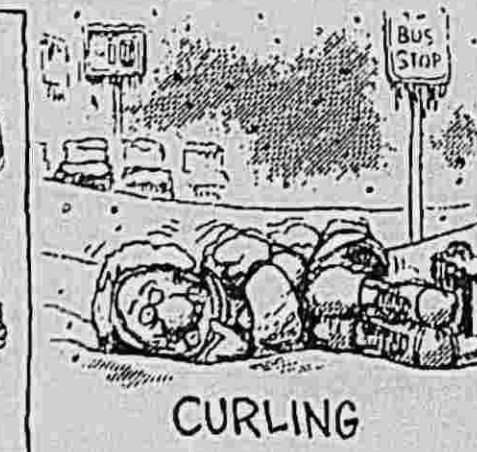

Like any good teacher, Daniels' sense of humor, knowledge of the subject and high energy level made the minutes skip by rapidly. We were dismissed early—10 minutes—after being presented "diplomas."

I'd be surprised if everyone in the class wasn't impressed with learning about defensive driving and becoming a safer, more courteous driver. Selection for the class is painful (who wants to get pinched by a traffic cop?) and enrollment is costly ($95 in my case). But the school is worthwhile. You bet it's worthwhile in terms of saving your own life.

Dinner sure to be Crane highlight

Sure to be a high point in Congressman Phil Crane's drive for re-election will be an appreciation dinner for GOP precinct committee workers and supporters Monday, March 9.

Members of the 8th Congressional Dist. Republican Organization, a Crane support group, are spicing interest by scheduling a mystery guest from Washington, D.C. President Venita L. McConnel of Wauconda exclaimed, "What a great night this will be."

The dinner will be at Concord Banquets, Route 12, Kildeer. The event is not a fund raiser, McConnel advised.

Gossett laughs

Retiring Libertyville High Supt. Don Gossett, a candidate for a Republican nomination for County Board, had a ready quip as he accepted a plaque from Lakeland Publishers honoring noteworthy citizenship. "I knew if I lived long enough, I'd be honored by a newspaper," chuckled Gossett, who knows how it feels to be on the receiving end of media barbs after 40 years in education.

Family history

With roots in Mississippi, former Under Sheriff William Ray Smith says he comes by the double handle naturally. Smith, on the campaign trail for a nomination for sheriff, says the original Willie Ray Smith is retired and residing in Mississippi after living and working in Lake County for many years. The candidate and his wife broke the name chain when they christened their son, now 4 years, Francisco.

Scores cronyism

Paul Petersen says his ingrained Danish stubbornness propelled him to challenge Tim Osmond for a Republican nomination for state representative. "I hate cronyism. When Osmond was anointed by party leaders to succeed Bob Churchill, I felt someone had to run to give voters a choice," the Waukegan resident explained.

Primary challenge

A forum for all Lake County

Board candidates in the March 17 primary election is scheduled for Saturday, Feb. 28, 9:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m.

The forum is being sponsored by the League of Women Voters will be held at the First Baptist Church in Waukegan.

Woods, wetland nods

The Woods and Wetland Group of the Sierra Club has announced its endorsements for county board in the March 17th primary.

Candidates getting the nod, with the exception of Democrat Peggy Shorts of Waukegan, are aligned with the so-called pro-environment faction of the county board.

Endorsed are: Judy Martini, Loretta McCarley, Al Westerman, Shorts, Diana O'Kelly, Sandy Cole, Carol Calabrese and Martha Marks.

Stepping out

And speaking of endorsements, retiring county board member Bob Neal is giving the thumbs up to Sheriff candidate Willie Ray Smith of Antioch, over incumbent Gary Del Re of Mundelein.

Smith was undersheriff under Clint Grinnell before stepping down for personal reasons. He retired from the sheriff's department last fall.

Not involved?

Some county board members had to chuckle following a Tuesday committee meeting when Chairman Bob Grever received a phone call in the conference room from former chairman Bob Depke.

The so-called pro-development group has made much out of the fact that Depke is not involved in this primary.

The reasons for Depke's phone call may have been personal, but some board members found it disenchanted.

Depke is wintering over in Florida these days.

A Reagan Airport but no Pfarr Lake

Just in time for his 87th birthday, Congress renamed Washington National Airport in honor of former President Ronald Reagan. Those of us who admire the Gipper were pleased.

Well, I have yet another birthday coming up next week and, call me a whiner if you wish, I'm concerned that nothing ever has been named after me.

But more about that later. One pundit quipped, "We should name an airport after Ronald Reagan in every state; then, travelers would never know where they are at."

That's almost true already in the case of Bill Clinton. The nation has 26 cities, towns or villages named Clinton! That includes Illinois and all of its neighbors, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, Indiana and Michigan.

California doesn't have a city called Clinton but it has a Santa Monica.

I fear today's children, and future children, may assume that all of those Clinton places are named after our current waffling but wily president, known in some quarters as "Slick Willie."

However, as we all should know, those 26 hometowns called Clinton are in honor of De Witt Clinton, who aided in the development of the Middle West by pushing for the building of the Erie Canal. He was governor of New York in 1825 when it was completed.

But, unfortunately, old De Witt may be headed for the ash heap of history. Maybe any future places named in honor of Bill Clinton should be called what a certain young friend allegedly has nicknamed him: The Big Creep or Schmucko?

Just recently, an admirable friend of mine has had a street named after him, and another old pal a park.

They join an ever-growing glossary of eponyms, people who have become words, such as Rudolph Diesel, the engine

THE PFARR CORNER

builder, Count Von Zeppelin for his dirigibles, Sylvester Graham for his crackers, John Stetson for his cowboy hats, and Dr. Joseph Guillotin, who thought hanging was too slow and painful, so he devised a quicker method of execution.

Other eponyms include Reuben Kay, a Nebraska grocer who invented a scrumptious sandwich; John McIntosh, of apple orchard fame; Enoch Bartlett, the pear guy; Samuel Benedict, for his egg dish; Alexandre Eiffel, for his tower; and George Ferris, for his carnival ride.

Also achieving immortality through eponymy were Earl Tupper, who gave us Tupperware; Adolphe Sax, the saxophone; Dr. Henry Heimlich, the maneuver; and W.R. Frisbie, the dog toy.

Man, those people were big-time. I guess I would settle for a lake, a peaceful, little old lake, because I'm not as shallow as I seem; pretty deep, actually. Then again, some may think I'm all wet but, honestly, there's nothing fishy going on here (except for a flurry of atrocious puns).

Alas, I suppose all the lakes in Lake County already have been named, for early settlers such as William Gray, Thomas Slocum, James Miltimore, Justus Bangs, the brothers Leonard and George Gage, and, in my neighborhood, a couple of long gone and otherwise forgotten gals named Catherine and Marie.

Okay, okay, I'll settle for a puddle, if it isn't too muddy. And if so honored, I promise, I'll puddle up.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Will 'Abby Road' go the way Plum Grove?

I was reading through this month's (March '98) copy of Outdoor Illinois, inside cover page by Director Brent Manning, thinking about plopping down $88 for a set of the new Dept. of Conservation sportsman's license plates. At first I thought I'd pick the "bass" model, being as I live in Fox Lake and all, but upon some reflection decided to pick the "pheasant" plate instead. Whereupon I started thinking further:

I grew up in Beecher. I learned to shoot along Will County railroad tracks. I learned to hunt in various fields and forests between the Indiana state line and Peotone. I learned to love nature not by going to "state controlled recreation areas" but by getting out in my own "neck of the woods" and befriending my neighbors. There's a particular place I'm thinking of that you won't find on any map; it's an old, tractor-rutted, dirt farm road that we as teenagers called "Abbey Road." It is now smack-dead in middle of where leaders want to erect the next great Illinois public albatross—the third Chicago airport.

Ironically, Abbey Road's most prominent feature is a 1930s era WPA concrete bridge straddling a small tree-lined creek. It's funny how the WPA and the "New Deal" liberals got ahead of themselves and built bridges where no road would ever end up. It was all in the name of "jobs." Of course, conservatives and republicans would never make that same kind of error. What party is it you belong to again? You're prime examples of a Republican's tendency to shoot oneself in the foot, and why I vote Libertarian when I can.

I'm sure you think that this third Chicago airport will attract business and bring jobs. How about lowering business taxes? Reducing bureaucracy? Companies haven't been moving to the Sun belt to find airports; they're looking for less regulation, fewer taxes, and cheaper labor. (Inidentally, Daley could take a hint from the aforementioned as well.) You can't even prove you'll have any customers for this airport. The airlines don't want it. And, I haven't seen any studies to show that travelers or businesses would use it. There's not even any evidence that the air-travel industry will expand in the next century. How about taking the $20 million plus you're planning on spending, (and we all know how "conservative" estimates like that turn out to be) and putting it into the highway fund? In case you haven't noticed it lately (Limos ride nice don't they?) Illinois roads suck.

There used to be a forest preserve at the southern end of Highway 394 called Plum Grove. In the late 70s they built a garbage dump (for Chicago's garbage) in the town of Goode now, whereupon run-off water polluted the creek that ran through the preserve and it had to be closed. I bring this up to demonstrate how utilitarian ideals manifested in public projects frequently run astray and trash areas far beyond their boundaries. Of course, when the airport's built nobody will then notice the garbage dump, will they? Will anyone remember Plum Grove?

Well I do; and Abbey Road too. (And many more places future teenagers will never get to name should you protagonists of concrete get your way.) These places are shrines to me, and as sacred as any church. By what right to do you propose to pave them over? When the whole world looks like it popped out of a Wal Mart, and all around you is parking lot, will you then be happy?

Don't look for my support on election day. And this conservation-minded conservative will wait to buy my sportsman's license plates until the time when we get a Secretary of State and Governor who give a — hoot.

Clerk offers thanks

A hearty thank you to many Deputy Registrars from the Lake County Clerk's office, civic and political groups who registered voters at 27 Dominick's and Jewel grocery store locations on Feb. 14. The registration drive was a tremendous success with many new voters signing up before the close of registration for the March 17 Primary Election.

A special thank you to Voter Registration Supervisor Patricia Bennett and her staff for all the scheduling and organizing the drive, and the delivery of supplies. Cook County Clerk David Orr and Jewel and Dominick's also deserve a big "Thanks" for working cooperatively to launch this metropolitan area drive.

I urge all 315,000 registered voters in Lake County to vote on Tuesday, March 17.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Don Taylor

Eight years and 258,363 words ago...

In 1990, the first Sunday in March was the fourth day of the month. I remember that day well. I woke early and hurried outside to pick up my copy of the Amarillo Sunday News-Globe.

I quickly turned to the second section. Page 21A carried the bold heading "Business." The lead story on that cover page told readers that cellular telephone service would soon expand to cover the Texas Panhandle.

However, on that Sunday eight years ago I didn't even notice the news. My eyes were drawn like a magnet to the upper left hand corner. There it was! The very first "Minding Your Own Business" column.

Time has flown by since that first column appeared. It's been eight quick, rewarding and very enjoyable years. I never dreamed on that first Sunday that the column would lead to more than one and a half million readers, two business books and an international speaking career.

Some major changes

Eight years is not long in the annals of history, but the business world has seen many changes. For example, in 1990 Wal-Mart Stores rang up annual sales of nearly $26 billion. In the fiscal year just ended in January, Wal-Mart's sales climbed to more than $118 billion.

To keep this in perspective, Wal-Mart is nearly three times as large as America's number two retailer, Sears ($38 billion) and is three and a half times as large as Kmart ($32 billion).

I believe Wal-Mart can become the world's largest company. They operate more than 98 percent of their 3,400 plus stores in the United States, Canada and Mexico. If they implement a global plan, they can surely pass General Motors, Exxon and Ford.

Wall Street has also seen major changes in the past eight years. In nearly 1990, the Dow-Jones Industrial Average hovered just over the 2,800 mark. Today, as I write this column (mid-February) the Dow-Jones Average soared to a record close above the 8,300 mark.

We've also seen some major changes in Washington since 1990. In the past eight years, the Democrats have recaptured the White House, and the Republicans gained the majority in the House and Senate.

However, even with all those changes, it's still business as usual in Washington. Congress still hasn't balanced the budget, spending will hit an all time high this year and the Administration is still bragging about downsizing the Federal Government.

According to Congressman Larry Combest (R-Texas) the President's new budget proposes $150 billion in new spending, 39 expanded entitlement programs and taxation at the highest level in America since 1945. I'm afraid the only downsizing is going to be in the area of our pocket books.

Changes at home

Yes, there have been a few changes at my house. I now have a computer in my office, and a 31-year-old Corvette roadster in my garage.

Don't have a W-2? Here's what you can do

As much as we all want our tax filing to go smoothly, sometimes there are delays and problems in getting all our information together. For example, January 31 has come and gone, and you still don't have a 1997 Form W-2, Wage and Tax Statement, from an employer you worked for during the year. This could happen to people who moved or held a number of jobs during the year.

What should you do if you haven't received a W-2? The Internal Revenue Service can help, but you must first make every effort to help yourself and wait until February 17 to contact us.

Begin by writing or calling your employer and asking if the W-2 was mailed and what address was used. Give the employer your name, former and current addresses, and social security number.

If you write, it might speed up the process if you include a self-addressed, stamped envelope. If you haven't received a W-2 from your current employer, check with your payroll or personnel department.

If you still haven't received a W-2 by February 17, you can call the IRS toll-free at 1-800-829-1040, or go into a local IRS office. We'll ask you for your name, address, social security number and daytime telephone number; the name, address and phone number of the employer; dates of employment; and your best estimate of the income you received and the amount of tax that was withheld. (This is why it's a good idea to keep your pay stubs throughout the year.) If you know your employer's tax identification number, it could also speed up the process.

You'll still have to file a tax return even if you don't receive a W-2. If you contact us, we'll send you a package that includes a substitute W-2 and a form 1040X, Amended U.S. Individual Income Tax Return. If you haven't received your W-2 in time to file by April 15, you should file your return using the substitute W-2. If you receive the original W-2 after you file with the substitute, and the original W-2 shows amounts that are different than what you used, you should file an amended tax return.

We'll also contact the employer and send them a packet that includes the information you gave us, plus blank Forms W-2 and W-3, Transmittal of Income and Tax Statements, for their use.

If you worked as an independent contractor, or had interest or dividend income, gambling winnings, pensions, etc., you should also have received your Forms 1099 soon after January 31. Remember, you're responsible for reporting this income on your tax form, even if you don't receive a Form 1099. You should follow these same procedures if you don't receive 1099 statements from your financial institutions.

One way to ensure that your W-2 arrives in time is to change your address with the post office and your employer each time you move. Don't forget, keep your pay stubs throughout the year.

Your tax package includes instructions on how to get IRS tax forms, publications and other information by mail, "on-line" or telephone.—By Robert W. Brock, IRS District Director

Auto show benefit raises $1.27 million for charities

First Look for Charity, the Chicago Auto Show's annual black-tie gala that benefits 12 Chicagoland charities, raised $1.27 million for those charities on Feb. 6, a record for the seven-year event.

More than 10,000 benefactors, bedecked in fine gowns and tuxedos, strolled elegantly about the 1998 Chicago Auto Show the evening before the show opened to the public.

One attendee, Jeanne Pollard of Chicago, left the party with the grand prize drawing: a 1998 Chevrolet Corvette convertible valued at $44,990.

"It's beautiful!" exclaimed Pollard, an auditor for Arthur Andersen. "I don't know if I'll drive it every day or just on weekends, but I can't wait to get behind the wheel."

First Look for Charity has become one of the special events among Chicagoland's charity galas. The more than $1 million it raises each year makes it one of the area's most successful one-day events.

"The Chicago Auto Show is uniformly regarded as the finest auto show in the country, but the charitable cause demonstrates that this auto show is about more than just vehicles and accessories," 1998 auto show Chairman Ray Scarpelli said. "The Chicago Auto Show is also about giving something to the charities of our community."

dominantly are children-oriented. Some operate on a global level; others, locally. All the money raised is distributed to the charities. The proceeds are used for the organizations' efforts in Chicagoland, Scarpelli said.

Charities involved in the seventh annual First Look for Charity are Alzheimer's Associations, ALSAC/St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, Boys & Girls Clubs of Chicago, Children's Memorial Foundation, The Cradle, and Illinois Spina Bifida Association.

Also, Little City Foundation, March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation, Misericordia Heart of Mercy Center, National Multiple Sclerosis Society, Ray Graham Association for People with Disabilities, and Ronald McDonald House Charities.

Overextended? There are smart ways to borrow from yourself

The best place to look for a little financial help might be in the mirror. Quite often, your own resources can provide the money you need to see you through a cash crunch, points out the Illinois CPA Society. Since loans against your resources are secured by your assets, this type of borrowing arrangement tends to be inexpensive and hassle free.

The loan of choice for homeowners

For most homeowners, a home equity loan or line of credit is likely to be the cheapest source of credit. With a home equity credit line, you draw against your approved line of credit by writing a check. You pay interest only when you access your credit line generally at an adjustable rate that is indexed to prime. A home equity loan lets you borrow a predetermined amount of money at a fixed rate and requires that you pay back the loan in installments over a specific term. The amount you can borrow is based on the market value of your home, less what you still owe on your first mortgage.

Interest on up to $100,000 of a home equity loan is tax deductible. It's important to use home equity loans carefully because you put your home at risk. If you default on your loan, your could lose your home.

Retirement funds to the rescue

Most employers allow you to borrow half the money in your 401(k) retirement plan, up to $50,000. Unlike hardship withdrawals which require that you demonstrate serious financial need, you can generally borrow against your 401(k) with no questions asked. Because the loan is secured by your retirement funds, the interest rate is almost always lower than you'd pay elsewhere. You typically have five years to repay the loan (longer if you're using the money to buy a home) and, in most cases, the payments are deducted from your paycheck. Since the interest you pay goes back into your account, you are essentially paying yourself interest.

Be aware that if you should leave your job, the balance you owe on your loan becomes due immediately. If you don't repay it, the loan is treated as a withdrawal, which means you'll have to pay taxes on the outstanding balance and a ten percent penalty if you're under age 59 1/2.

Life Insurance as a backup

Borrowing against the cash value of your whole life and certain other cash-value types of life insurance can provide easy access to money at rates that are lower than most other forms of debt—perhaps as low as 5 or 6 percent on some older policies. But there are drawbacks to borrowing against your policy. First, if there is an outstanding balance at your death, that amount is deducted from the policy's face value and your heirs receive less than you intended when you purchased the policy. Second, the interest rate you would normally earn on the cash value is reduced on the portion that is used as loan collateral. In effect, that loss of interest increases the cost of your loan.

Margin loans for savvy investors

If you're cash poor, but have a sizable investment portfolio, a margin loan is another way you can borrow from yourself. Using your securities as collateral, you can typically borrow up to 50 percent of the current market value of your stocks and up to 90 percent of Treasury holdings. Although margin loans are most often used to buy investments, the proceeds can be used for any purpose. The advantage of borrowing against your stocks is the low interest rate charged by most brokerage firms. Another benefit is that you can repay margin loans a quickly or as slowly as you like. (Note that, in general, interest is not tax deductible when margin loans are used for purposes other than purchasing investments.)

Unfair advantage

According to the newspaper, I see Ray Gundelach of the Fox Waterway agency, was acquitted for operating a boat while under the influence of alcohol. He refused to take a test to determine his blood alcohol level. His license was supposed to be suspended for two years. According to another paper, he got his license back this past August. I hope that if I am stopped by a sheriff boat patrol and I refuse to take a breath test and have to stand for trial, I get the same jurors Mr. Gundelach had. Then I would be acquitted too. I am an ordinary citizen of Antioch, not know politically, like he is. I am sure my fate would be different.

Antioch

Fishing Derby

I am calling to criticize the unsport-mans like conduct of the yearly fishing derby. The requirement of the judge actually having to see the catch verses two independent witnesses causes the killing of some of the largest of our fish. We should stick to the rules they print in their flyers.

Loon Lake

Kaput

Colin McRae has been seen running all over Mundelein trying to gain support for his recruit Mary Fitzgibbons. In case you haven't heard, Collin, all of your friends have been fired from the county board. Diana O'Kelly has done more for District ten in one term then you have done in a lifetime. Give it up, Collin. Your washed up, Kaput, finish. Don't degrade the Fitzgibbons family with your underhanded politics.

Mundelein

Golf rules

My friends and I don't believe the PGA Golf rules should be changed because of this one disabled man, Mr. Martin. He probably just wants extra attention. The PGA has had these rules for many years, and everybody has abided by them. They are not discriminatory either, because they allow people from foreign countries to participate in our tournaments.

I am sure he can enjoy himself playing golf games with his friends. I read somewhere that in his present condition it could be detrimental to him to play golf to often, because you have to do a lot of practicing. I don't think this should be disrupted because of one person.

Mundelein

Go to school

I am calling about "tough break" in the February 13th issue of Lip Service, who said he wishes he could make $30,000 or $40,000 and only work 180 days. Well he or she can do that. Just go back to school and get your bachelors degree, probably your masters degree also and get a teaching job.

Antioch

What about Grandma?

I agree with "no parking." Sometimes my grandmas comes to stay with us for Christmas and my birthdays. We have to park our cars in the street. Now if we can't, Where is my grandma going to park? We can't park in the parking lots all night. I am just saying this rule is unfair.

Tax rebate

To the village trustees of Grayslake, if the municipal code does not allow the village to build school additions then I suggest we test that interpretation in court or use the receipt coming from the USA Countryside landfill to be given to the tax payer in the form of a tax rebate.

Grayslake

Bonehead

My opinion on the moving of the post office to be near the Metra Station is that it is a terrible idea. That is one of the most congested areas around, yet that's where you want to put it?

Round Lake

Stop complaining

Everybody should stop complaining. Teachers who complain about their work load should shut up. Those who wish they could be teachers and only work 180 days a year, should go back to school and get your degree and become a teacher. Everybody has free choices and should take responsibility for their own life.

Wendy's restaurant

I want to know why we can't have a Wendy's in this area? We have other fast food restaurants and the food is terrible. The food is the poorest quality there is, it is like the government cafeteria of the world. We need a Wendy's. Why can't we have one?

Ingleside

Take action parents

It was sickening to read the Round Lake Beach headlines. We want gangs out. Why not focus on the residents who are trying to keep kids off the street by offering them a chance to be high achievers in their communities, schools and church's. It sounds like they have too much extra time and no supervision at home. I want these gangs members' parents to take action, not the residents. Let's nip this in the bud where the problems started.

Round Lake Beach

You asked!

I would like to entitle this message, "You asked, now let me tell you." What about Linda Peterson for County board? She is the best person for this job, and you would know that if you took the time to read her profile or get to know her. Linda Peterson has never ridden on anybody's coattails. If she has a popular last name its because she made that good name for herself and her family. She knows more about unincorporated Antioch and other areas, but you would know that if you took time to check the facts. Or maybe you're just a jealous person.

Antioch

Slow down!

This is about the young person in the Fox Lake area who thinks he is going to live forever. He is well known by all the residents of the area that he drives reckless in his red car. He has a total disregard for the rules and speed limits. It is scary that he will probably put a child or himself in danger.

I hope the parents will read this and recognize their son before something disastrous happens. People are going to start calling the police and complain about this young person. He is going to be very well known at the Sheriffs office.

Fox Lake

Read the law

The Grayslake board can lawfully transfer landfill money to help build new schools, and help lower our taxes. No doubt about it. Read the law. Nothing prevents it. If they can't figure out a way to do it, some citizens will meet with Village Manager Michael Ellis, and show them ways it can be done. The village should not be allow to meter out landfill money to their pet projects and force the school to raise our taxes.

Grayslake

Drinking and driving

I would like to know when the County Sheriff are going to wise up and catch factory workers drinking and driving on Calahan Road and Fish Lake Road. Five days a week, at noon, they stop at the Clark station to buy their beer. And when finished, they throw their garbage up and down the road. I would be curious to see how many of those have licenses and insurance. I don't think they have them. Put up a road block one afternoon.

Wauconda

Who's more sick?

I am from Antioch, this is to the "Crying Shame" article where the person said he is a Republican and voted for Clinton. Maybe you are sick when you said you don't care about his sex life. This was done while he was a married man and the president of the United States. This is worse then what president Nixon did. Maybe the younger generation doesn't care what kind of

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Dear Search:

I answered an advertisement in the newspaper for a position in a small company. They were seeking a general office/receptionist for a 4 person office. When I initially called, the person I spoke with set up an interview with me for late that afternoon. When I arrived, the office was closed. I was 10 minutes early for my appointment and while I could not understand no one being there I decided to wait for a while. I waited for an additional 15 minutes and still no one showed up. I went to a pay phone and called their telephone number and received an answering machine for which I left a message to call me. The next day I received a call from the company asking me to come back for the interview that afternoon yet they offered no explanation for why there was no one there for my interview the day before. I reluctantly went there a second time and was practically offered the job instantly. They told me they needed an answer then and there to start the following day. You can imagine my concern to make a snap decision, however, jobs are hard to come by, so I accepted. I worked for a full week before I decided to ask when I would receive a paycheck, and was shocked to find out that the company pays on the 1st and 15th of each month. I also found out that the company which advertised as offering benefits, offered only the benefit of a discount on the company's business service. Needless to say, I quit after the first week. I learned a lesson from this. I should have followed my instincts from the onset knowing something was wrong when no one was there to interview me and no explanation. I hope this letter helps open the eyes of others if in a similar position. Thanks for listening.

R.P. - Lindenhurst

Dear R.P.:

A stronger lesson to be learned...Find out about pay, paydates, benefits and such...before accepting a position. That way, there leaves no room for shock! Be leery of a company that demands a split second decision.

Dear Search:

I worked for a company for about 3 months and started getting close with another employee. My former boyfriend showed up at the office after work and started a fight with the fellow in the parking lot. It didn't get totally out of control, however, the next day I was laid off from my job. The reasons were not pointed out to me, but I'm sure that it was related to the fight. I'm unemployed but the co-worker is still employed there. I don't feel this is fair. I did not cause the fight, but they won't listen to that. What should I do?

K.D. - Ivanhoe

Dear K.D.:

First thing to do...Find another job. Second...Find another boyfriend who can act a bit more mature when it comes to your work place...Third...Don't get involved with co-workers.

Note: Nancy Sakol is a licensed personnel professional and President of Superior Personnel in Gurnee.

Letters can be sent to Nancy Sakol c/o Lakeland Newspapers, P.O. Box 268, Grayslake, IL 60030
